Further Industrial Triumph

for

BRADMOLA HOSIERY

The Directors of Bradmola Hosiery Mills (Dublin), Ltd., have great pleasure in announcing to the Ladies of the Irish Free State and the Trade a further progressive step in this young industry which in the short space of 18 months has already tripled its production.

¶ This rapid and continuing expansion in the demand for BRADMOLA products has rendered the existing factory and plant quite inadequate to meet their needs so that additional floor space has been acquired for the building of a new and larger factory—this will enable the Bradmola Company to cater for, in addition to their other lines, the great demand for Full-Fashioned Hose, which at the present time is being supplied in large quantities from various outside sources. With this object in view, a new and very expensive plant of the latest type Complet Full-Fashioned Hose Machinery has been ordered for making the very fine gauge grenadine Pure Silk Perfect Ankle-tailored Stockings (with the up-to-the minute French foot) in Chiffon, Compensene and Crepe Hosiery which is such a sheer delight to those who insist on the Hall-Mark of better dress This wonderful piece of Machinery will be the first of its kind to be installed in the Irish Free State.

¶ The Directors wish to thank the Public sincerely for their support which has ensured the success of this branch of Irish Industry and their efforts will be devoted in the future, as in the past, to increasing the value and prestige of all Bradmola Products.

AN ITEM OF INTEREST TO AMERICAN VISITORS.

Extract from "Irish Independent," August 3rd last.

RUSH BY ROAD, AIR and SEA TO OBLIGE CUSTOMER.

A Dublin firm chartered a special aeroplane yesterday to take a parcel of linen and lace to Cobh for delivery to an American visitor who had forgotten to collect his purchases and was leaving Ireland for New York.

When it was realised that the customer had overlooked his purchase the firm, Messrs. Brown Thomas and Co., Grafton St., sent off a special messenger in a fast car for Cobh.

On reaching Naas, however, he decided that it would not be possible to reach Cobh in time. He returned to the Aerodrome at Kildonan, and in a few minutes was speeding southwards in a Dragon aeroplane, piloted by Mr. G. A. R. Williams.

IN TIME

A landing was made at Farmers' Cross, Cork, and from that point he rushed to Cobh by fast car. A dash in a special ship's tender followed, and the parcel was delivered just as the liner was leaving.

HOLIDAY CROWDS SEE "BATTLES"

Thousands of holiday-makers watched two "battles" launched near the Sussex Downs in the British Army manœuvres yesterday. Heavy rain had made conditions unpleasant for the participants, but the troops, who had been in camp for a week, looked the picture of health as they began operations.

Two brigades of the Second Division from Aldershot were mainly concerned in the operations, comprising regiments associated with Scotland, Yorkshire, Lancashire, Worcestershire, Wales, Staffordshire, and Durham.

The greater part of the British Expeditionary Force will take part in the manœuvres between now and the end of September. It is expected that they will be watched by foreign military attachés and by Members of Parliament.

During exercises in Hampshire an attempt will be made to land an invading force by sea.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

ALLEGED FORGERY

(BEFORE MR. E. J. LITTLE, D.J.)

Francis Daly, insurance agent, Castleblayney, Co. Monaghan, was remanded in custody for a week on a charge of having in July, 1935, at College Green, Dublin, uttered to the Prudential Assurance Company a forged certificate of death of John Bethel with intent to defraud. Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor, appeared for the Assurance Company.

TO TAKE THE PLEDGE

John O'Reilly, Ballinteer, Dundrum, was charged with being drunk whilst driving a motor car.

Mr. J. J. O'Connor, who appeared for the defence, said that his client was in a public-house in Talbot street on Saturday evening last and had his motor car parked outside. When he got into the car to drive away the front bumper struck a taxi-cab, causing damage to the amount of £2 5s. He had been in the mercantile marine service and had contracted malaria. He was not supposed to take any drink. He had served as a commissioned officer in the National Army and had now a small business. He was prepared to take the pledge.

Mr. Little said that having regard to the circumstances he was not prepared to convict. He applied the Probation Act on O'Reilly undertaking to enter into his own recognisances in £10 and to take the pledge for two years.

MAJOR FOUND SHOT IN TENT

WELL-KNOWN TRACK-RACING EXPERT

Major Cyril Maurice Harvey, of Clifton Down, Bristol, aged about 41 years, who went to Trevenwith Farm, St. Keverne, Cornwall, on Thursday last to camp, was found dead on Sunday afternoon in his tent. There was a single-barrel gun by his side.

The discovery was made by Henry Hall, son of the farmer, and he informed the police.

Major Harvey had a long racing experience, both on track and road, and was well known at Brooklands. A few years ago, in the 1928 two hundred miles race, he crashed when in the lead. He was a good but very unlucky driver.

It was learned later that Major Harvey had been staying at St. Keverne for a fortnight, and he had frequently ridden horses from Mr. Hall's farm. On Saturday he rode one of Mr. Hall's horses in the races held at Coverack, and was thrown from his mount. He was seen to remount and complete the course, having apparently received no injury.

He had been camping alone in an ordinary bell tent in a field about two hundred yards from the farmhouse, where he had been having all his meals.

On Sunday afternoon Mr Hall's son called out that his meal was ready, but received no reply. Knowing that the major would be in his tent, the son walked down the field to it and discovered the tragedy.

Major Harvey was to have been joined by a number of friends yesterday, but as soon as his death was discovered they were communicated with, and arrived at St. Keverne late on Sunday night.

Major Harvey was the brother-in-law of Major G. A. Burgoyne, who was killed by a bomb from an Italian 'plane in Abyssinia when he was in charge of an ambulance unit.

Major Harvey was a competitor in several of the motor races in Northern Ireland.

A well-known driver said yesterday:—"I saw Harvey only two or three weeks ago, and he was as fit as anything, but he told me he could not get a job."

LIME AND SOIL FERTILITY

ADVANTAGES OF LIMING LAND

A great many of the problems connected with soil fertility are imperfectly understood. In this, as in other matters, it is reasonable to believe that our fathers knew from experience, or through other means, things that we are only rediscovering now. A generation ago all the land of Ireland was limed and limed fairly frequently. Then came a period when it was believed that lime only burnt up the soil. Now we know that lime is not only a crop food in itself, but makes other crop foods available for the plant. As Professor Keeble says, "There is another cause which contributes year by year to soil infertility and one moreover which operates not only on the heavy clays but also on the lighter soils. It is the spiriting away by nature of such gifts of lime as have been bestowed on the soil either by nature herself or by the farmer."

Lime is no less a plant food than are nitrogen, phosphates and potash. Like them, lime is both a plant food and a soil food. It increases the fertility of both. When supplies of lime fall below a minimum crops suffer. So also do those bacteria which help directly to supply the crop with food. They become more and more idle in the work of promoting soil fertility; the soil deteriorates. This deterioration is of a twofold kind. The plant starved of lime is less capable of making use of other foods which the soil contains.

HOW IT DISAPPEARS

Lime, like other plant foods, disappears rapidly from a soil, says the Free State Farmer. Lump lime put on a field persists steadily in finding a lower place until presently the chunks deposited on the surface may be found buried three feet deep in the soil. Rain dissolves lime and carries it away in the drainage. Even in lime-stone districts soils may be found, the upper lays of which have lost all the stones of lime with which they were originally provided. Lime is also driven off by some of the nitrogenous manures, taken up in crops and in the bones of animals and the milk of cows.

While heavy dressings of lime are useful and, indeed, needed on soils that lack it, smaller dressings will give immediate returns in the shape of heavier crops. Even half a ton to the Irish acre will give remarkably good results if it is so distributed as to be available for the crop for whose benefit it is intended. For most heavy clays that are difficult to work lime provides the only satisfactory method of improvement, and for those soils which are unable to produce clover and other pod crops it is also, in one form or another, the only remedy.

STRANGE FATAL ACCIDENT

On Saturday a boy named Chivers, of Westfield, Radstock, Somerset, was given a penny to buy some ice cream. Sitting on the running-board of a car, he began to eat the ice, when the driver returned and got in on the opposite side.

Unaware of the boy's presence, he started the car, and the boy was thrown off, receiving injuries from which he died yesterday in Paulton Hospital.

Police are trying to trace the driver.

GERMAN STATE RAILWAYS STAND

The German State Railways are among those who are exhibiting at the R.D.S. Horse Show this year, and their stand—No. 42 in the Main Hall—has a number of interesting features. The design is unusual and includes the word "Germany" translated into Irish and written in Irish letters. Telegrams will be received at the stand twice a day from Berlin giving the latest results of the Olympic Games, and this intelligence is available to all visitors to the Show. Those who propose to visit Germany can obtain information from Herr Hans Beckhoff, an official of the German Railways Information Office, who has just arrived from Berlin.

PUBLIC HEALTH IN MAYO

TUBERCULOSIS DECREASING

LOW BIRTH AND DEATH-RATE

LEGAL powers are needed for the compulsory removal from their homes of persons with advanced consumption when they are living under conditions in which the spread of the disease to other members of the household is inevitable, says Dr. J. D. Hourihane, medical officer for Mayo, in his 1935 report, which has just been published.

He cites the case of a man who was found to have pulmonary tuberculosis some years ago. This man lived in a slum house in a large town, and refused to enter a sanatorium, and subsequently he died. A few months ago his step-sister (who had been examined earlier and found apparently free from the disease) was diagnosed to be suffering from tuberculosis. Dr. Hourihane points out that the association of the two people in the slum dwelling was probably responsible for the woman's contraction of the disease; this, he says, was a case where the power of compulsory removal might well have been of use.

The number of notifications of tuberculosis in the county last year showed a decrease—from 140 in 1934 to 111, but the number of deaths was higher—185, compared with 156 in 1934 and 163 in 1933. The tuberculosis rate for Mayo, however, is 1.07, slightly below the rate for the whole of the Free State, 1.2.

LOW BIRTH RATE

The birth rate (16.27 per 1,000 of the population) is below the average for the country (19.2), and the death rate (11.85) is also lower (13.7).

The incidence of infectious diseases generally was fairly severe, for, in addition to a case of typhus fever—the first since 1931 and the origin of which could not be traced—the figures for typhoid or enteric fever showed a moderate increase, and that for diphtheria a small increase. The scarlet fever figure showed a reduction of about 50 per cent.

The case mortality for diphtheria was 19.7 per cent., an extremely high one, and Dr. Hourihane draws attention to the need for the immunisation of more children against the disease.

Food supplies in the county appear to be of a high standard, for a table shows that of 777 samples taken only two (one of new milk and the other of buttermilk) were found to be adulterated. Owing to heavy over-expenditure in a few districts the total grant for the year's free milk supply was exhausted in seven months. Under new clauses, however, a repetition of this will be impossible. Free meals under the School Meals (Gaeltacht) Act were given in fifty schools, and Dr. Hourihane says that undoubtedly these meals were responsible for reducing the number of children suffering from malnutrition to a record low figure of 69 (2.2 per cent. of the 3,095 examined under the schools' inspection scheme).

Considerable progress with housing has been made by the Board of Health, which operates voluntary and compulsory schemes, and through private enterprise.

BALDOYLE RACES

HORSE SHOW MEETING

The Bank holiday and the beginning of the Horse Show contributed to make the Baldoyle meeting yesterday the most crowded and fashionable gathering of the year at this popular course. An excellent programme was provided, with large fields, and the race-goers enjoyed a splendid afternoon's sport.

The weather was disappointing. The wind, which was quite strong at times, rather spoilt some toilettes, making eye-veils somewhat difficult to manage and hair very troublesome. However, in spite of this, there were many interesting fashions. Some ladies present dared the elements to do their worst by wearing light summer frocks; but once again the majority were in tailored suits. A variety of colours were worn. Possibly navy blue was the most prominent. Several tailor-made suits were of this colour, and frequently navy hats of felt or straw were worn with grey tweeds.

Lady Fingall, who came with Lord Fingall, wore a light brown tailored suit and a darker brown straw hat, while Lady Talbot de Malahide's suit was of grey tweed and her smart hat of navy blue. One of the most noticeable lady race-goers was the Hon. Mrs. G. Wellesley, who was dressed in dark mauve. She wore a silver fox fur with her becoming tailored outfit. Navy blue was worn by Mrs. Morrough Ryan and by her daughter, Miss M. Morrough Ryan. Both favoured small toque hats and wore silver fox furs. Miss E. Jameson was dressed in a grey flannel coat and skirt and a white blouse, while Miss I. Ainsworth wore a small black velvet hat and an uncommon black blouse with her grey suit. Mrs. J. More-O'Ferrall wore a grey cheque tailored suit, with a small navy blue felt hat and a silver fox fur. A smart, short white coat was worn by Mrs. Cyril Myerscough over her brown skirt; her hat was of white straw. Miss H. Nugent was in a beige outfit.

Among others present were:—The Duc and Duchess de Stacpoole, Viscount Milton, Lord and Lady Fingall, Lord and Lady Talbot de Malahide, Mrs. Schlenger, Major T. J. AUGUST BANK HOLIDAY

DUBLIN DEFIES WEATHER

BIG MOVEMENT OF VISITORS

PEOPLE have become so accustomed to the "depressions" described in the weather forecasts that a considerable number now carry a raincoat automatically. The habit has been formed, and even if the prophets had omitted to mention in their forecasts for yesterday the showers that came at too-frequent intervals between the bright periods, coat-carrying probably would have continued as it did. However, there was a hint of defiance of the weather in the demeanour of the hundreds of visitors that one saw in the streets of Dublin yesterday—visitors from England, Scotland, America, and various parts of the country. They had been coming in streams since the latter end of last week, and they seemed determined, whether it rained or not, to see as many of the things worth seeing in the time at their disposal as it was possible for them to see.

The British and Irish Steamship Company's steamer discharged between 3,000 and 4,000 passengers at the North Wall yesterday; and two special boats, in addition to the mail boat, brought a total of approximately 4,000 passengers to Dun Laoghaire. Among these were about 350 from Stoke-on-Trent, who were welcomed in Dublin by the Lord Mayor, and who went to parts of County Wicklow.

The Great Northern Railway Company brought 450 passengers from Londonderry to Dublin on Sunday for the week's end; on Saturday they carried 350 from Belfast to Killarney; and yesterday 450 from Belfast to Dublin. On the other hand, a special train left Dublin for Warrenpoint with 700 passengers on Sunday, and yesterday another train took 550 from Dublin to Belfast.

A STEADY EXODUS

A large party sailed from Dublin to Douglas yesterday, and special trains carried excursionists to various resorts, but while there was a steady exodus to the seaside resorts, no "records" were broken.

Four Great Northern Railway 'buses were engaged on a tour to the Boyne Valley.

The August Bank Holiday race meeting at Baldoyle always is one of the most popular features of the season, and its attractiveness had not diminished yesterday. There was a continuous line of vehicles to the course during the early part of the day, and the events were keenly followed. The regatta at Wicklow, too, draws a big number of city folk to the Murrough, and this fixture also maintained its attractiveness. Golf, cricket, and other forms of entertainment had their own special followers, as well as the greyhound races at Shelbourne Park.

There were early queues for the picture houses; and the theatres, with their special holiday and Horse Show attractions, were patronised liberally at night.

IN THE NORTH

The weather in Northern Ireland was more reminiscent of April than August, heavy showers alternating with periods of brilliant sunshine and a pleasant warm breeze, which seemed to put life and vitality into the countless visitors who crowded the seaside resorts, and the wayfarers, who, afoot and awheel, brought colour and variety to the country lanes and hillsides. The spirits of the thousands of cross-Channel visitors seemed nowise damped by the weather, but the attendance at Bellevue, Belfast, was considerably affected by the rain in the morning, the city tramway receipts suffering accordingly. A special excursion from Dublin brought about 600 visitors to the Northern capital, and large parties from the Free State went to Rostrevor, Warrenpoint and Newcastle. The holiday is not generally observed by people in the North, only the banks, Government and municipal offices and stockbrokers' establishments being closed.

PRAGUE INTERNATIONAL FAIR

One of Europe's greatest industrial fairs, the Prague International Fair, will be held from September 4th to 13th, 1936. The opening date had been set ahead to enable buyers to visit the Prague session immediately after closing at Leipzig. Entries have been received from about 3,000 exhibitors, which will cover the whole field of Czechoslovakia's industrial output. Glass manufacturers will take part completely, and also none of the large porcelain factories will be missing. Toys, leather goods, textiles, household and kitchen utensils, as well as technical equipment, will form groups affording a comprehensive idea of what is happening in these Czechoslovakian lines.

Prague Fair visitors enjoy considerable advantages: Czechoslovak railways grant 50 per cent. fare reduction, and almost all other European railway, shipping and air lines grant 10-50 per cent. The Czechoslovak Consulate in Dublin will be glad to serve with further information about the fair.

WOMEN POLICE FOR FREE STATE?

At a meeting of the National Council of Women of Ireland on Friday, delegates were appointed to attend the International Peace Congress in Geneva in September, the International Council of Women's Congress at Dubrovnik in October, and the Commonwealth Congress at Johannesburg in November.

It was stated that over twenty-five Dublin societies had so far pledged themselves to support the campaign for securing a force of fully-trained women police in the Irish Free State.

The Standing Committee for Legislation Concerning Women had drawn up a national memorandum on women's legal and economic status in the Irish Free State, which it was hoped would be used, in view of the League of Nations Secretary-General's inquiry from all member-States on this point.

Mrs. Lucy O. Kingston was appointed Honorary Secretary of the N.C.W., on the resignation of Miss Mary Story, M.A.

HOUSING CALVES

CLEANLINESS ESSENTIAL

All calves should be housed at the end of this month at latest. Apart from the husk worm, which rarely misses calves that are out in the early mornings in September, the calves do better if housed from the end of this month (says the Free State Farmer). Of course, they should be allowed out in the day time and at night they should have plenty of fresh air. Clean litter and a dry roof are essentials, and after this the calves should be so housed that there will be no noticeable "fog of heat in the house at any time." It is customary on many farms to add to the litter daily, only cleaning out the house once or twice during the whole winter. This is a thoroughly dirty habit and is almost certain to produce bad results. Housed calves particularly should be frequently examined for vermin, and if any are found should be treated immediately. Paraffin oil and linseed oil, about one to eight, is a satisfactory dressing enough, but must be used a couple of times. Keep good hay for calves rather than for any other animals on the farm.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Buyers at Ballsbridge : Miss Helen Howe : Authors' Income Tax : Another Dog Story

Lady Helen and the Show

During the past few years one misses Lady Helen McCalmont and her jumpers very much at Ballsbridge. But she never competes there now, and it is particularly regrettable that Mrs. Marshall, who rides for her, is never seen riding there these times; for her riding would be one of the attractions of the Show. I know that Mrs. Marshall has been asked by several people this year to ride their horses, but she has refused. Some years ago Lady Helen was one of the strongest supporters of the Horse Show. She it was who sponsored the Ladies' Competition, I believe. She also presented the trophy for this competition. She named it the Whitegate trophy. It is really a Queen Anne tea service. Whitegate was the name of her great jumper, whose fame in the showyard has placed him among the immortals of his class. She requested, I believe, that the trophy which she presented should have its name changed. As far as I remember Lady Helen also sponsored the £100 Championship Competition. This year she has entered a horse for sale at Goff's, but next week she and Major McCalmont are going to Yorkshire to shoot; for Lady Helen is a crack shot. There they will be joined by their son.

The McCalmonts

I hear great accounts of young Mr. Victor McCalmont—son of the Major and Lady Helen. This young man, who is now seventeen and still at Eton, has been riding his father's horses for the Hon. George Lambton's stables in the gallops at Newmarket. His horsemanship has created a great impression. When at home he hunts six days a week during the season, and since quite a small boy he owned a pack of beagles. Like his father, he is a good hound man, for although he started, it seems, with a pack of quite small beagles, he bred them bigger and bigger each year. Now I hear he intends to sell them and invest in a good point-to-point horse. Of course, eventually we shall probably hear of his riding as an amateur. When he finishes at Eton he will possibly go to Sandhurst, and later join a cavalry regiment. In the ordinary course of events he might have joined his father's old regiment, which was, I think, the seventh Hussars—but that regiment has since become mechanised!

Another Dog Story

My story about Mick the Hiker has brought a letter in which another Kerry blue owner tells about the homing instinct of his Chip. This young dog was given to a friend, who took him by car to Rush, and there made him comfortable in an outhouse surrounded by high walls. During the night he escaped, and two days afterwards arrived back at his first home on Rathmines road. My correspondent also says that another of his Kerries, presented to a friend at Dolphin's Barn, habitually visited his old home, where he always announced his arrival by violently banging on the halldoor. He never outstayed his welcome, and, after enjoying the run of the house for about an hour, departed as noisily as he had come. These return journeyings seemed to be so extraordinary that the dog was surreptitiously watched, when it was found that he covered the greater part of the distance by swimming in the canal.

Paddy, the sire of these dogs, was highly intelligent. Every morning when the Irish Times was slipped through the letter-flap he would pick it up from the hall floor and carry it to his master's room. This set task was performed unfailingly for many months, until there came a morning when my correspondent arose impatiently to seek the cause of the first dereliction of duty. In the hall he found the maid of the house struggling to force something between the dog's teeth, but Paddy would have none of it. It was not the Irish Times! How did the dog know that the wrong newspaper had been delivered? This is something like a problem story, the solution of which, however, is simpler than at first it seems to be.

Income Tax

During the last few years of their lives it was the opinion in literary circles in England that two authors who contributed the largest sums in income tax to the Exchequer were Rudyard Kipling and Arnold Bennett. Rumour put the amount roughly at between £1,000 and £1,300. Now it will come as a surprise to most readers who are au courant with modern novelists and their productions to learn that Mr. Michael Arlen, whose books make but a limited appeal to people on either side of the Atlantic, to hear that the Government of the United States had been endeavouring to lighten him of such a substantial amount as 74,595 dollars for 1934, and that in the end it has consented to accept less than one-sixth of that claim. It is all very illustrative of the methods pursued by the Washington officials when dealing with immigrants who have not taken out naturalisation papers, and who are supposed to be on the crest of the wave of prosperity—especially in the case of literary folk, even if their works are only in moderate demand in circulating libraries and at railway bookstalls. But the British income tax assessors cannot be said to have clean hands in the matter. When Henry James came to live in London, with the better part of his career still before him, his income was put at a figure much in excess of the actual amount, and he had some hard wrestling with the English officials before he convinced them of the sum he legally owed them.

Miss Helen Howe

Those who have been enthralled by the art of Miss Ruth Draper may be inclined to the belief that she is unique; but such is far from being the fact. The highly-individualised art of which Miss Draper is the best-known exponent on this side of the Atlantic is, apparently, more general in America than is generally supposed. The other evening I had the great pleasure of seeing another such artist in the person of Miss Helen Howe. It was at a private gathering in Dublin, and despite the fact that almost everything was against her Miss Howe gave a brilliant series of sketches. If she lacks the exuberant personality of Ruth Draper, and it was difficult to judge in the intimate atmosphere, Miss Helen Howe is, if anything, more sympathetic in her interpretations. She was in turn a French lady embarking on a cruise, a beauty specialist in New York, a Middle-West producer in amateur theatricals, an English conductor of madrigals, and a little girl receiving a prize at term-end. In all of these varied impersonations Miss Howe was brilliant in interpretation, evoking the environment no less than the personality of her prototype. One would desire to see her under theatre conditions, where illusion is more easily sustained, and where her excellent voice would have full effect.

Jumping

I do not envy the various judges at Ballsbridge this week. Judging is an arduous job, and has to be accomplished very thoroughly to satisfy everyone. Judging the jumping competitions every afternoon seems to be one of the most strenuous jobs of the week. This is shared by Mr. B. T. O'Reilly, Mr. P. Dunne Cullinan, Mr. John J. Ryan (of Scarteen), Mr. William Twomey, Mr. John Kernohan, M.R.C.V.S.; Captain E. T. Boylan, and Mr. Justice Wylie. Lord HolmPatrick officiates as starter. The jumping courses at Ballsbridge are the most formidable in the world. The permanent course consists of six stiff jumps. Among them are two banks and a stonewall. If the horse clears these banks his performance is judged by style. The first bank is a single affair, with a ditch on the near side, and the horse must jump clean on to the top and straight off. The double bank is a tremendous affair, with a ditch on each side. It looks a regular fortification. Then there is the champion stonewall, which starts at five feet, and goes up to any height you like, so long as there are two horses left in to compete against each other. Beside the permanent course there are other courses with various jumps to negotiate.

Buyers at the Show

No Dublin Horse Show would be complete without Mr. Oliver Dixon. The Dublin Horse Show is not just a show, but a great fair. That is how it strikes the foreigner, and you cannot have a fair without buyers—that is where "Oliver," as he is known, comes in. Buyers come and go, but Mr. Dixon goes on for ever. The years still sit lightly on this dapper Irish Englishman, and even should he become, in the words of Grace Moore's song, "too old to dream," he has a stalwart son in Mr. Howard Dixon to take his place at future Dublin Shows. This time Mr. Dixon has brought Mr. Frank Poulton and his wife over from Reading. Mr. Poulton is interested in bloodstock, and was very much impressed with the course at Leopardstown on Saturday. He intends to pick up some thoroughbreds during the week. No matter how many visitors we may have from other countries, it is the Englishman who is our best customer every time.

QUIDNUNC.

THE ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS

OVER 18,000 VISITORS IN JULY

The members' monthly breakfast of the Royal Zoological Society was held on Saturday last, Lord HolmPatrick, president, in the chair.

During the month of July, notwithstanding the very indifferent weather, 18,228 visitors came to the Gardens.

The president mentioned amongst other arrivals that a fine specimen of an African grey parrot was presented by Miss Rutherford, and two South American boa constrictors, in excellent health and spirits, were presented by Mr. Justice FitzGibbon.

After breakfast the draw for the bronze statuette of chimpanzees, presented by Miss Ethel Ball, took place, and Miss M. F. Hurley, of 266 North Circular road, was the lucky winner.

Lord HolmPatrick also stated that the Society was expecting a puma in the course of a few days, and a consignment of animals was also on its way from Singapore, from Mr. John L. Woods.

Among the guests at breakfast were:—Mrs. Matson, Mrs. Bigger, Master Frank Bigger, Mrs. Walsh, Miss Maria Jones, Mrs. Praeger, Mdlle. F. Henry, Miss Andrews, Doctor Corbet, Mrs. Alan S. Gordon and party, Mrs. Grantt-Bryon, Miss Betty Ferrar and Doctor McDonogh.

BAND PERFORMANCES

The Dublin Corporation have arranged for the following band performances, viz:—

Tramway Employés' Band, to-day, Broadstone Open Space, 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.; British Legion Band, to-morrow, Herbert Park, 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.: Fintan Lalor Pipe Band, with Gaelic orchestra, choir and dancing, Friday, Beggsboro' Park, Cabra, 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

KENYA

Kenya offers a delightful home or holiday, with excellent social amenities and sport in healthy climate, to a man with a moderate income; and good prospects to a farmer with a minimum capital of £2,000.
Colonel Knaggs, Kenya Government Agent, will be in Dublin at Flat No. 1, 53 Pembroke road (off Waterloo road), from the 4th to the 10th August, and will be glad to give further information if you care to call on him there between the hours of 10 a.m. and 12.30.

IRISH WEDDING

MR. W. WILSON AND MISS M. R. SPARLING

The wedding took place in Clogher Cathedral of Mr. William Wilson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson, of Castlecomer, County Kilkenny, and Miss Muriel Rose Sparling, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sparling, Limerick. The bridegroom is an official of the Ulster Bank at Clogher.

The bride was given away by Mr. R. M. Foster, Clogher, and the best man was Mr. J. N. Carter, son of the late Rev. J. Carter, of Carrickfergus.

Canon Keane, M.A., Rector of Clogher, officiated.

The bride was married in a going-away frock of navy blue, a small navy toque, and silver fox fur. Little Miss Babs and Master Neill Foster were in attendance.

A reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Foster, after which Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left for London and the Isle of Wight, where the honeymoon will be spent.

HORSE SHOW ATTRACTIONS

To the many attractions of the Horse Show period already announced in our columns the enterprising firm of Messrs. Battersby and Co., the well-known Dublin auctioneers, of 39 Westmoreland street, have added yet another by the opportune appointment of the auction of the contents of historic Shanganagh Castle for the week succeeding Horse Show. This sale, which has already been advertised in this paper, is attracting unusual interest among lovers of rare furniture, paintings, objects of art and antiques, and the wealth of these at the Castle will satisfy the most fastidious tastes and will well repay a visit of inspection. Visitors to the Show will have an opportunity of inspecting these on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Horse Show week, and the sale will open on Monday of the week following. Many visitors to the Show have expressed their intentions of waiting over for the auction, and the demand for catalogues is on an unprecedented scale.

It was not generally known that the Castle contained a collection of rare classical inscriptions until a paper read by the late Dr. Louis C. Purcell before a meeting in the Royal Irish Academy disclosed this interesting fact. In the inner hall a visitor's attention will early be arrested by a fine carved Italian marble sarcophagus, with linen fold carving and centre plaque of girl, with scroll and carved pilasters of cherubims. Many of the rooms contain fine examples of Bossi and carved Carrara marble mantelpieces. There are also throughout the house many excellent pieces of Chippendale and Queen Anne furniture, but connoisseurs will probably be more allured by the fine examples of French style displayed.

FILM NOTES

The Appeal of "Ourselves Alone"

"The Man Who Broke the Bank" : An Excellent Colour Cartoon : Shirley Temple : "Celeste Aida"

By Our Cinema Correspondent.

I AM surprised, but not unduly so, to observe that "Ourselves Alone" has entered upon a fifth week at the Grafton Cinema. It is a good, sound film—"workmanlike," I think, was the word which I used to describe it a month ago, and the word fits—but it is hard to see just exactly why it should have succeeded where other films of the Anglo-Irish struggle have failed. There are, of course, some very good performances in it, conspicuous among which is that of Commandant Connolly by Clifford Evans—who contrives, indeed, to steal a great part of the film—and John Loder's as County Inspector Hanlon; but there are also a few things which I should hardly have thought would have allowed it this prolonged appeal. Anyhow, it is a film of an excellent type for show during Horse Show Week, especially when one considers that it has only just been released in London, and that many English visitors will see it here for the first time.

AS for this week's new films, they are varied in type, and their quality, upon the whole, is high. The Metropole management, I assume, has deliberately held back "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" as a special treat for Horse Show Week; for it was released many months ago, and ought, by rights, to have been shown in Dublin before now. It is an unusually pleasant film to watch, although, looking back upon the performance, I can see no particular reason why it should have been. Ronald Colman has any amount to do, and does it with that curious ease and grace which have kept him a "star" when so many of his contemporaries have fallen by the wayside. Why Joan Bennett was chosen to play opposite him is not easy to understand, for her performance is by no means good; and once again Colin Clive, who is becoming far too rapidly stereotyped by Hollywood, gets a part that is unworthy of him. The scene in which Ronald Colman breaks the bank, and the other scene in which he almost does so again, are extraordinarily effective; and his sentimental journey in pursuit of Joan Bennett has some highly delightful episodes. I have only two complaints to make against the film. There are just too many cloakroom scenes in it, and the introduction of even a hint of that one-time world-shatterer, the song that gives the film its name, would have pleased quite a lot of people.

Jean Muir.

The American Civil War

THE Stephen's Green shows Shirley Temple in "The Littlest Rebel." I confess to a partiality for pictures of the American Civil War, which, for all its brutalities, was the last war to retain anything of the quality of romance. Nevertheless, I rather feared that Shirley's little tricks would be overdone once again, and so, to a certain extent, they are; and yet, whether it is the unusual setting or not, this is by a long way the most attractive Shirley Temple film which I have seen. The plot is inevitable. One begins with niggers singing "Swanee River" in the old plantation; then a messenger of war on a panting horse; father goes off to the front; the plantation falls upon evil days, and all the rest of it. But there are some excellent scenes. Shirley's birthday party at the beginning is done with a delightfully pompous absurdity, her antics with a catapult are very funny, and by some means or other they have kept her from doing her worst—which is pretty bad. There is, of course, a good deal of sentimentality, but not nearly so much as might have been feared.

This cinema also shows a colour cartoon which demands a mention. Most of these recent colour cartoons are rather thin; but this one, "Jack and the Beanstalk," possesses some magnificent touches. The growing beanstalk, for example, converts itself into a corkscrew as often as it meets a cloud; the giant's harp is constructed in the shape of those on the old Irish national flag—the front part being a sort of figurehead in the model of a woman—and this figurehead turns round and twangs the strings at the giant's command; the hen lays her precious eggs into a cash-register; and there is a delightful shot of the giant's colossal shadow approaching the ground as he falls. This is a cartoon in the best tradition.

"Stars Over Broadway"

ONE would have presumed from the title that "Stars Over Broadway," at the Savoy, was one of these spectacular affairs, with "snappy" tunes and hundreds of chorus girls, but one would have been wrong. Actually, it is a somewhat boring film, in which Pat O'Brien "discovers" a singing genius in the person of a hotel porter, sets him on the ladder of fame, and then has the consolation of seeing his protégé not only drink himself silly, but also pinch the girl whom Pat, in his patient way, loves. The singing genius is played by one Jimmy Melton, of whom I know nothing, except that he is unlikely to create a furore. If his voice had been really as good as it is advertised to be, his singing of "Celeste Aida" would have redeemed the film from mediocrity; but it seemed to me that he sang with a lack of feeling that would make an Italian listener throw knives. Pat O'Brien, on the other hand, plays his lugubrious part with considerable confidence, and Jean Muir is exceedingly restful to the eyes.

Kitchen Control

"PERSONAL MAID'S SECRET," at the Royal, is a genuinely novel picture. For the most part it deals with the rise of a family in New York "society" under the influence of a maid whose previous experience had been among the—is it the Four Hundred? There is, of course, another plot, involving the maid's secret, though it is not very long before a reasonably intelligent person has guessed what the secret is. The part of the maid is played admirably by Ruth Donnelly, and the other parts are well filled. This is an amusing and delightful film, whose brief moments of incipient sentimentality are kept in most praiseworthy control.

The Corinthian has been showing quite a succession of these films on the line of "China Seas" lately. This week's is "Hell Ship Morgan." The ship sails Mexican waters, complete with typhoon, and its exceedingly tough master is George Bancroft, of whom very little has been heard of late. The film is one of these excellent, two-fisted, swashbuckling productions which have little appeal for the intelligentsia, but are nearly always extremely well done.

Ronald Colman.

EVERYTHING READY AT BALLSBRIDGE

It is now certain that broken weather will not interfere with the success of this week's Dublin Horse Show. During a tour of the showyard yesterday an Irish Times reporter noticed how completely every detail has been attended to. Horses entered for competition arrived by motor lorry and train, and, after a careful veterinary inspection, were brought to their stalls or loose boxes. It could be seen at a glance that North and South had combined to produce a display of horseflesh that would do the country good, and make a fine impression on cross-Channel and overseas visitors. One well-known Northern Ireland exhibitor is represented by no fewer than forty entries, while another has an entry of twenty-three; and some of these are certain to figure in the prize list. There will also be found among the exhibits the champion hunters from such showyards as Cork and Clonmel, and their placings in competition with horses from other parts of the country will be watched with interest.

VALUE OF PROVINCIAL SHOWS

It is difficult to assess the value of provincial shows as a ground for trying out horses that display some promise, but there can be no doubt as to their effectiveness in bringing out animals of a really useful type, locally bred. Young horses likely to make hunters, bred in Munster or Leinster, are often brought to the peak of perfection in some part of Ulster. In the Irish horse-breeding industry there is no division of interest between North and South. All concerned aim at securing the custom of Great Britain or the Continent, and in the Royal Dublin Society's Horse Show—and the sales of thoroughbred yearlings, mares, foals and horses-in-training at Ballsbridge Bloodstock Paddocks—there is ample opportunity for doing so. Animals from stables in all parts of the country are catalogued for exhibition or sale, and visitors on the outlook for really good stock can usually get something to suit them at a reasonable price.

SEATS AT JUDGING RINGS

Round the judging rings on this occasion regular showgoers will notice with satisfaction the arrangements which have been made for seating accommodation under the trees. A day at the Horse Show can be very tiring on those who wish to "do it properly." Even without the variety which is a feature of the Spring Show, there is a great deal to be seen at the Horse Show, and continuous standing or even walking is naturally exhausting. The extension of the seating accommodation already provided will, therefore, be welcomed. As concrete paths now surround each of the judging rings, there is little danger of anyone at the ringside suffering much from a bad break in the weather. The ground is solid, and shelter is provided by the foliage of the trees. In the Jumping Enclosure the places where visitors can be thoroughly drenched are few. Here, if conditions are favourable, one must admire the neatly trimmed hedge and flower border which surround it.

THE ENTRIES

The chief competitive entries are made up as follows:—

	1936.	1935.
Thoroughbred Stallions, Yearlings and Brood Mares ...	114	112
Made Hunters, five years old and upwards	430	479
Young Horses suitable for Hunters	175	194
Ladies' Challenge Trophy	65	67
Jumping Competition "A" ...	75	75
Ladies' Jumping Competition...	22	9
Riding Cobs and Ponies	98	98
Children's Ponies	74	71
Children's Jumping Competition	35	—
Harness Horses	34	53
	1,122	1,158

Over 500 made hunters, four years old and upwards, will come before the judges to-day in their respective classes. Made hunters are always the main attraction of the Show, and this year's entry should serve to make the event a memorable one. In the Serpentine Hall, on this occasion, instead of trade exhibits, as at the Spring Show, there are many loose boxes, well lighted and ventilated. The Sandymount Hall has been converted into a series of loose boxes for the accommodation of horses entered for jumping only.

HEAVY BOOKINGS

Proof of the popularity of the Show is afforded by the heavy bookings for the Grand Stand, apart from the demand for season tickets.

A great deal of interest attaches to the visit of the Vancouver Band, a combination consisting of fifty boys, of ages ranging from fourteen to eighteen years, from British Columbia. These boys will make their first appearance at Ballsbridge to-day, after paying a visit to the Lord Mayor of Dublin at the Mansion House.

The People's Government

President de Valera is not, as a rule, among the world's most lucid orators, but there are times when he puts a case with fine clarity and strength. Such an occasion was on Sunday, when, speaking at Enniscorthy, he justified his Government's attitude towards the Irish Republican Army. The Free State, said President de Valera, is a democracy. Any party or any group is at liberty to put its policy before the people, and, if the people endorses that policy, to form a Government; the machinery of government will be handed over to it as peacefully as it was handed over to Fianna Fáil when the people had tired of Mr. Cosgrave. The will of the people, however, is the only maker of Governments in the Free State. If a group of people tries by force to establish itself in power against the wishes of the majority, then the people's duly constituted Government will be compelled to resist by force—and the result must be civil war. We think that, if the people of Ireland were accustomed to be guided by reason, this brief analysis of the issues would more than justify the so-called coercive measures both of the present Government and of its predecessor. The Irish Republican Army claims to possess a God-given authority which over-rides all other authority in the Free State—and, for that matter, in Northern Ireland. Its spokesmen prate of "democracy" as often as any of their colleagues are thrown into prison, and condemn as an "attack upon liberty" every arrest of an I.R.A. member who has been found in possession of a gun. Surely they do not expect to enjoy the privileges of democracy unless they are prepared likewise to assume its responsibilities. The Irish Republican Army knows that it cannot obtain office in the Free State by the ordinary processes of democracy, and that its sole chance lies in a complete disregard of all the constitutional methods. Only by terrorism can it gain its ends; and no democratic Government can tolerate such a threat to the stability of the State.

People will argue that President de Valera's precept of to-day differs strangely from his practice in 1922, when he refused to accept the majority's decision, and challenged a duly elected Government with armed force. The world, however, has moved since then, and the experience of fourteen years seems to have convinced him that the people's will really is the one authority which matters. The present Government of the Irish Free State, we recognise, has done things that savour more strongly of the ways of dictatorship than of the ways of democracy. We have pointed out that, when it restored "politics" to local government, it was flirting with the "totalitarian" idea of the State; and its elaborate series of Orders in Council render it virtually autocratic in many spheres. Nevertheless, we believe that President de Valera is at heart a democrat of the best tradition, and that, if his first concern is for an Irish Republic, his second is for the maintenance of democracy. Perhaps, he sacrificed too much to this particular loyalty. He believed in all good faith that, when once the Oath of Allegiance should have been abolished, the Republican extremists would flock to nominate their candidates for Dáil Eireann, to register their votes, and to act in every respect as citizens of a democratic State. He was deceived. The I.R.A. knows well that, whatever it may gain by terroristic methods, it cannot hope to secure a working majority—or, indeed, more than a very few seats—in the people's assembly; and it did not respond to the President's invitation. He tolerated the organisation until its defiance of the people's will became too bare-faced for any popular Government to endure, and then, confessing his error, took those repressive measures which ought to have been taken far earlier. Will the I.R.A. be any more willing to accept the people's judgment when President de Valera has fulfilled his promise to banish every trace of the King from the Constitution? Will it admit that the last "shackle" has been broken, and that there is no further reason why it should prefer the gun to the polling-booth? We should like to think that it will undergo a change of heart, but we have our doubts.

There are, indeed, curious resemblances between the situation in Ireland and the situation in Spain. The present Spanish Government was elected constitutionally by a substantial majority of the people. It is far from a perfect Government, and its alliance with the canaille has resulted in disgusting excesses; yet it is the only body that possesses the right to rule in democratic Spain, and, as such, is entitled to the sympathy and moral support of all people who retain faith in democracy. Its authority has been challenged, not through the legitimate medium of the ballot-box, but by the gun. Yet there are people to-day, both in Ireland and in England, who, while professing to be democrats, are siding openly with the Spanish rebels, and seek to represent Señor Giral's Government as the aggressive party. Admittedly such people have their reasons. They detest Socialism, and the bond of religion unites them with the rebels. Yet not even these powerful sympathies and antipathies entitle them to encourage armed rebellion against a constituted Government; and anybody who approves the action of the Spanish rebels denies his democratic faith. President de Valera is right. So long as a country clings to democracy, there is only one legitimate means to challenge the Government's supremacy; and, if the Irish Republican Army prefers other means, it must be prevented. We hope that it never will attain to office in this country. Yet, if the I.R.A. should appeal to the people, and, as a result, should find itself with a constitutional majority, we should regard it, and none other, as the legitimate Government. There is no reason why it should not make a bid for the people's favour—except, indeed, the virtual certainty that its suit will be rejected. Until it is successful at the polls it can speak with no authority; and, if it presumes to set itself above the law, the Government has no choice except to treat it as a subversive organisation and to keep it under restraint. To act otherwise would be a denial of democratic freedom.

An American Example

President Roosevelt's visit to Canada, where he is spending a short vacation, ought to be an object lesson to Europe. Over here, where we all are so proud of our ancient civilisation, where the arts are supposed to flourish, and culture to radiate to the ends of the earth, peoples are glaring at one another across heavily fortified frontiers. Nobody trusts anybody else. All the nations are arming to the teeth. Europe's frontiers are bristling with guns, and everywhere the traveller finds evidence of suspicion and mistrust. On the American continent a vastly different condition of affairs exists. Mr. Mackenzie King, the Canadian Premier, reminded President Roosevelt the other day that for more than a hundred years virtually no fortifications had been built on either side of the frontier between Canada and the United States. Along this great line, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, bridges and public parks take the place of fortresses and gun emplacements. Complete harmony exists between the two peoples; and when President Roosevelt called on Lord Tweedsmuir, the Canadian Governor-General, there was nothing to discuss except plans for further and closer co-operation. The relations between Canada and the United States are unique. Canada is intensely individualistic, and exceedingly proud of the fact that she is a British Dominion. Her people are jealous of their independence, and when, in the days of Sir Wilfred Laurier, there was talk of "reciprocity" with the United States, there was a violent outburst of popular opposition. Yet, in spite of these facts, there is a close friendship between Ottawa and Washington. The people of the United States respect the sovereignty of the Canadians. They have no desire to interfere in their neighbours' business, and the result is a complete understanding between two peoples of widely differing characters. If two nations can live side by side in America with a common frontier of some thousands of miles, does it not seem to be ridiculous that a like condition is impossible in Europe? In this part of the world common-sense seems to have given way to bitterness of spirit, to hatred, intolerance, and distrust. While Americans are working together in an effort to promote the common good, Europeans are picking quarrels and doing everything in their power to revive old enmities. Even in our own little island North and South are divided not only by a frontier, but by a vast gulf of ideals and ambitions. President Roosevelt can go to Ottawa and pay a high compliment to the Governor-General of Canada: can anybody imagine President de Valera calling on the Duke of Abercorn at Hillsborough? Yet why should the suggestion be so fantastic? It is not so very long ago since Canada was America's Ulster, and the factors making for co-operation between the two American peoples are not nearly so strong as those that are operating in Ireland. The difference is psychological rather than geographical or political. In America the two peoples have learned to live and to let live: in Ireland nobody seems to have learned anything. One day, perhaps, Dublin and Belfast will be on terms at least as good as those between Washington and Ottawa. In the meanwhile we only can envy the Canadians their good fortune.

Sporting Records

Nobody will ever know for certain whether W. G. Grace was a better cricketer than Jack Hobbs, or whether W. T. Tilden, in his prime, would have been a match for Fred Perry. In general, a comparison between athletic heroes of the past and the present is quite fruitless; for they never can meet to contest their skill; but the present Olympic Games are a reminder that, at least, some forms of athletics can be judged in this manner. The stop-watch and the measuring tape give the verdict, and they prove beyond much question that the runners, jumpers and weight-throwers of to-day are better men or women than their predecessors. Already one "world's record" has been broken in Berlin, and others are almost bound to follow; the public, indeed, would be slightly surprised if the great festival did not produce its usual crop of records. Yet, when the point is considered, it is more surprising that there should be this steady improvement in times and distances. The motor cars of 1936 can move faster than the motor cars of twenty years ago, but the human body cannot be "improved," and it would be reasonable to think that there would be very little difference between the best athletes of any generation. The facts prove otherwise, and only one reason can account for them. As a whole, the young men and women of to-day probably are on much the same level as the men and women of fifty or a hundred years ago—perhaps, even slightly lower, now that the towns have usurped the more vigorous life of the country. Nevertheless, the athletes are decidedly better, because sport no longer is a casual pleasure, but a business which must be taken very seriously. The runners and jumpers of the past knew nothing of the years of intensive training which alone can ensure success in modern sport; and the modern athlete's body has been "tuned up" to achievements which otherwise would be impossible. In due time training may reach its limit, and may set up records which cannot be surpassed.

Stranger than Fiction

The latest news from Singapore proves once again that art never can hope to be more than the pale reflection of life—or, if one prefers to state the doctrine in more familiar terms, that truth continues to be stranger than fiction. Singapore, as our readers are aware, guards the British communications from India to the Far East, and thus is a point of immense strategic importance. Realising this fact, and realising also that anything might happen in the present disturbed state of the world, the authorities at Singapore have decided to redouble their vigilance. When naval and military secrets are at stake, no precautions can be too great; and in future it will be a punishable offence to wear a false beard or to walk the streets in any other form of disguise. Can it be true, then, that spies still go about their work in the manner with which a thousand novelists have made us familiar? Singapore's embargo on false beards opens up a vista in which the prospect grows more alarming with every glance. If espionage there is carried on in such a manner, it is at least possible that other well-known agents are at their sinister work also. Can it be, for example, that Singapore is harbouring the charming young lady with the long cigarette-holder and the Russian accent, who already, in fiction, has stolen the heart and the confidential documents of more than one civil servant? Has it taken full precautions against the handsome stranger who even now may be strolling in a distinguished manner through the lounge of Singapore's best hotel, attired in immaculate evening dress and the star of some foreign Order? What of the inscrutable Chinaman, his Oriental suavity concealing a diabolical cunning and a more than diabolical acquaintance with thumbscrews and boiling oil? To arrest everybody who wears a false beard is a step in the right direction; but it is not enough.

GAIETY THEATRE RE-OPENS

"TWENTY TO ONE"

The Gaiety Theatre looked particularly attractive last night when it re-opened to a holiday crowd after its redecoration and re-seating. The cream and gold scheme, in which the interior is now carried out, and the new bucket seats, looked very handsome, and the theatre presented a smart and gay appearance. For the occasion the new management had engaged the London comedian, Lupino Lane, with a first-class London company, in a musical sporting farce, "Twenty to One."

Written and produced by L. Arthur Rose, it is the sort of lively comedy that will make great appeal to the big crowds of horse-lovers and racing people who are in town for the Horse Show. The story is somewhat thin, but still the thread is strong enough to afford Lupino Lane plenty of rein for disporting his great gifts of comedy. It really revolves round the rivalry between Mrs. Murgatroyd Smith, leader of an anti-gambling league, and her brother, General Warrington, who is a follower of racing. The anti-gambling members are burlesqued rather severely, and great play is made out of the efforts of one of their members, Timothy Quaintance, to get rich quickly by placing a bet on a horse. Twenty to one are the odds—hence the title of the piece—and his method of acquiring knowledge about betting provides some of the most amusing situations in the play. Of course, it all ends up quite happily, and, as the whole thing is so obviously farcical, no one's feelings are hurt.

Lupino Lane, as Snibson, "a racing man who has seen the error of his ways," carries the main burden of the piece, and lives up to his reputation as a comedy-maker. There is not a dull moment while he is on the stage, and there does not appear to be a trick in the bag which he cannot call out. He has one very catching song, "Play the Tambourine," as well as a speciality number, but one would have liked to have seen a lot more of his dancing, of which he is a master. He received splendid assistance from Barry Lupino, who excelled himself as the almost incredibly ignorant Timothy Quaintance, and the comedy between the pair, especially in the first and third scenes of the second act, was uproariously funny. Also helping to keep the laughter going was Winnie Sloan in the part of the anti-gambler, Lucretia Harbottle. Wallace Arthur also impressed much in his playing of the part of the blustering, rather hot-tempered General Warlington. The smaller parts are capably filled, and there is a strong back ground provided by the London Coliseum Girls.

The musical numbers are bright and lively, without anything particularly outstanding, and the production is all that could be desired.

Harold Brewer, the musical director, keeps the whole thing moving with a lively pace, though at the start matters are inclined to drag. That fault, no doubt, will be remedied now that the company are over their first-night feeling.

LONDON LETTER

MUNITIONS FOR SPAIN

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

RUMOURS persist that Italy is supplying the Spanish insurgents with munitions of war. It is said that, if the Spanish Government succeeds in crushing the revolt, it will lodge a complaint accusing Italy of acts of unprovoked aggression. Such action may have far-reaching effects on the tranquillity of Europe. While it is quite permissible to supply munitions to any Government which is menaced by internal disruption, it is contrary to international law for a country to supply arms to rebel forces attempting to overthrow an existing friendly Government. It will be interesting to see what is divulged at the trial of the Italian airmen who are charged in France with flying across French territory without permission and with carrying war material for the use of the insurgents. Messages from Rome disclaim Italian interference, and declare that a number of aeroplanes were sold to Spain long ago.

The Anglo-Egyptian Treaty

Next month will see the formal signing of the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty. The two big obstacles to the conclusion of an agreement have been removed, since Britain has conceded the points on which the talks between the late Mr. Arthur Henderson and Nahas Pasha six years ago broke down. Egypt will take a more effective part in the dual control of the territory to which Egyptian troops and officials will return. Immigration from Egypt will be unrestricted. An Egyptian member will sit on the Governor's Council, and two Egyptian officials will be appointed to superintend civil and military affairs. An Egyptian deputation will reach London about the end of the month to complete the usual formalities.

Wheat

While North American farmers have been praying for rain, those in this country have been equally earnest in their prayers for sunshine. The continual rains of the last few weeks have done immense harm. It is no exaggeration to say that quite one-half of the hay crop has been ruined, while the few good corn crops have been so battered about that they will be difficult to harvest. Unfortunately, many crops of wheat are too light to be lodged. Fine dry weather is badly wanted; for otherwise the harvest will be late, and delays in autumn sowing will affect next year's wheat crop seriously. If, as seems probable, there is a world shortage, it would be in the national interest, apart from any consideration of defence, to sow as much wheat as possible. Flour, by the way, is dearer than it has been for three years; prices have advanced by 5s. 6d. since the beginning of June. London millers announce that the price of standard grade flour in the home counties is now 32s. 6d. a sack of 280lbs. Quotations for inner London are 6d. less.

The Eastern Terminal

It is hoped that the difficulty with regard to the construction of the Langstone Harbour air base at Portsmouth, which is to be the terminal port of the Empire and trans-Atlantic services, will be surmounted speedily. The trouble is entirely financial, and a sum of over a million pounds is involved. It is proposed that the Air Ministry shall contribute 75 per cent. of the capital outlay, but that Department has instituted an inquiry, with the object of putting forward alternative schemes of a less costly character. If the Empire and trans-Atlantic experimental flights are not to be delayed owing to the absence of a suitable base, it is essential that the work of constructing one shall be put in hands as soon as possible.

Empire Air Services

About 10,500,000 letters, weighing 215 tons, were sent by air from Great Britain to India in 1935—which compares with 6,000,000, weighing 122 tons, in 1934, and 4,000,000, weighing 85 tons, in 1933. The British Commonwealth of Nations has now surpassed the United States of America for air route mileage. The corresponding figures for 1935 were 53,291 and 52,461 miles, respectively. India's share of the former figure was 6,395 miles, over which over 43 tons were carried—a fourfold increase in the last two years. Passenger traffic between India and other Empire countries has likewise gone forward by leaps and bounds.

Mr. Baldwin's Birthday

To-day Mr. Stanley Baldwin celebrated his 69th birthday at Chequers, where he is spending the first part of his holidays. He intended to leave for Aix-les-Bains, his usual holiday resort, last Thursday, but cancelled the arrangements at the last moment. Instead of going abroad this year he will spend some weeks in Wales, where a country house has been put at his disposal. Afterwards he will visit his native county of Worcestershire. He will keep in close touch with Downing street throughout the recess, and, like all other Cabinet Ministers, will be available at a few hours' notice for any emergency which may arise. Next month Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin will celebrate the 44th anniversary of their wedding.

British Wheat Imports

Much responsibility for the success of the Government's plan, for safeguarding the British livestock industry will depend upon the two new bodies which will be set up under legislation to be introduced in the autumn. These are the Empire Meat Council, representative of the United Kingdom, and those Empire countries which supply meat to the British market, and the International Meat Conference, which will be representative of the United Kingdom and those countries, both Empire and foreign, which export substantial quantities of meat to Great Britain. It is hoped that these two bodies will be able to reach agreement with regard to the regulation of imports, which is an important matter not only to overseas producers, but to the British farmers. If satisfactory agreement is not reached, the Government will seek general power to regulate imports in the interests of home producers.

Bank Holiday in London

Generally dull weather, with brief intervals of sunshine, a fresh, cool breeze from the South-West, and frequent heavy clouds, which threatened thunder or a deluge, or both, marked the August Bank Holiday. These forbidding conditions, however, did not deter day excursionists from seeking a few hours at the seaside or inland, with the result that throughout the morning trains were running in triplicate; and motor cars were jamming the roads. Late arrivals at many of the seaside towns yesterday were unable to find housing accommodation, and had to bivouac in whatever shelters they could find. Not a few spent the night on the sands. All to-day London's places of interest were crowded by foreign visitors, who are here in much greater force than at any previous holiday season. All the river services in the upper reaches and seawards were much patronised. The former had a most profitable day, after having experienced a leaner season than has been recorded for years.

DEATH.

BYRNE—August 3, 1936, at a Private Nursing Home, Dublin, Margaret (Tottie) Byrne, 130 Bank place, Mallow. Deeply regretted. R.I.P. Funeral arrangements later.

DEATH OF THE DUKE OF GRAFTON

TRAPPED IN BLAZING CAR

LIMERICK ROAD RACE SMASH

BUGATTI HITS WALL AND GOES ON FIRE

TWO SPECTATORS ALSO INJURED

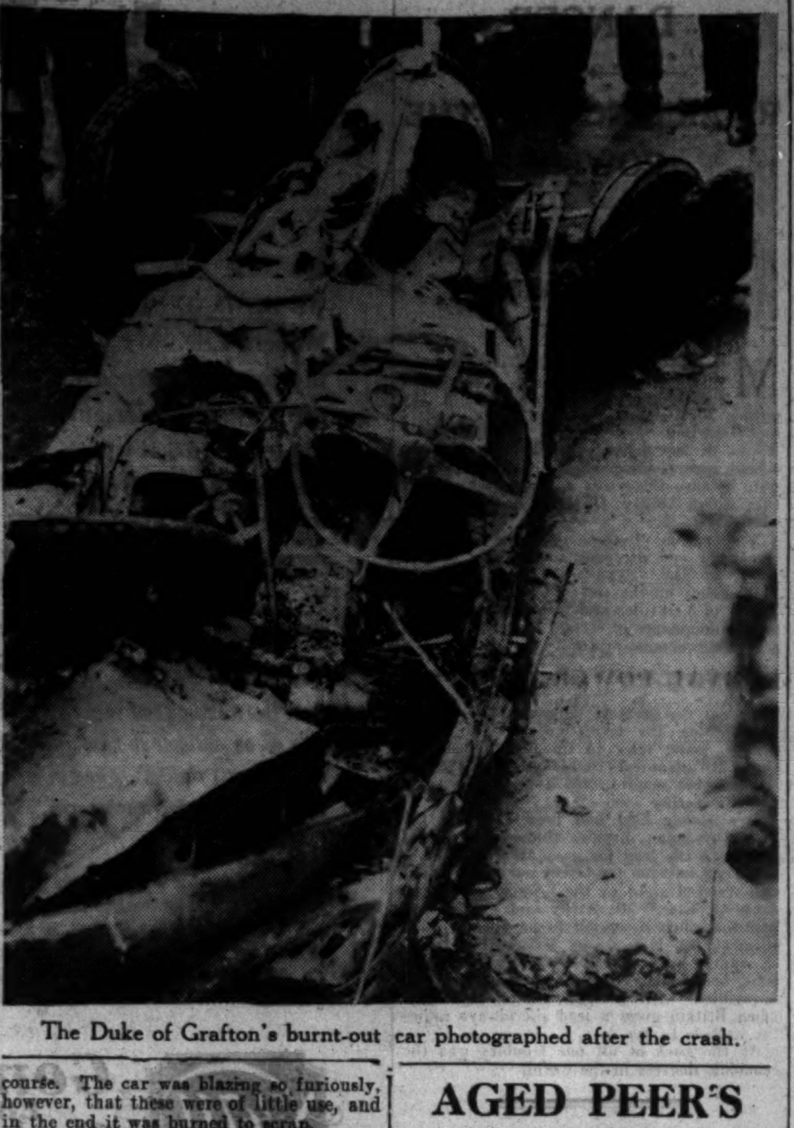
FROM OUR MOTORING CORRESPONDENT.

THE Duke of Grafton died early this morning in Barrington's Hospital, Limerick, as the result of a terrible accident during yesterday's Grand Prix street race.

His car collided with a wall and burst into flames, most of the driver's clothes being burned off him before he could be rescued from the blazing machine.

His legs were burned to the bone.

The accident occurred in the first quarter mile of the race.



The Duke of Grafton's burnt-out car photographed after the crash.

DASH FROM THE START

The cars had been started in two groups, and the Duke took the lead as soon as the second group were despatched. His car—a 3.3-litre Bugatti—was the biggest machine in the race, and it tore through the first bends at a very high speed, with Miss Eileen Ellison, in the second biggest car—a Maserati—only a few feet behind.

On an awkward turn into Roxborough road the Bugatti struck a bump, and its direction was deflected. Travelling probably at 75 to 85 miles per hour, it struck a wall, burst into flames, and careered along the wall for forty feet before it stopped.

The following cars avoided it by inches.

FLAMES SEVERAL FEET

The flag marshals, to whose coolness great credit should be paid, waved desperately at the other machines to go slowly.

THE DUKE OF GRAFTON.

The Duke of Grafton was badly burned even before his car stopped; for he was sitting in a furnace whose flames were several feet high.

The pall of smoke that arose told the news of the burning car all over the city of Limerick within a few seconds of the crash.

A local marshal pluckily dashed into the flames with a fire extinguisher in one hand, and pulled out the Duke with the other. The driver's clothes were saturated with the special alcohol fuel that he had been using in his car, and marshals frantically tore at his clothes to remove them.

MEDICAL AID CALLED

The scarred and tortured body of the Duke was taken into a yard nearby, and marshals tried to relieve his agony. Until a blanket could be secured he lay there, almost naked, with his singed and burned eyes closed, though he was quite conscious.

It was difficult to get a doctor to the scene, as this was one of the most dangerous sections of the course, where spectators were not permitted on the road.

At last he was carried away on a stretcher.

In the meantime, fire extinguishers were being rushed up from other parts of the course. The car was blazing so furiously, however, that these were of little use, and in the end it was burned to scrap.

SPECTATORS BURNED

Two spectators, who had been seated on top of the six feet wall into which the car crashed were so badly burned that they, too, had to be taken to hospital, one being detained.

Their names are Keyes and Ruttle, and they are from Rathkeale.

Marshals who helped to tear off the Duke's burning clothes also had to be treated in the hospital.

The Duke of Grafton, it may be recalled, was one of those who were not permitted to start in the Cork car race because of failure to complete the qualifying laps. He showed his sportsmanship by entering almost at once for Limerick.

AT THE STARTING LINE

Those who had met him at Irish races were greatly impressed by his charm and modesty.

While he was actually on the starting line he stated that he felt rather apprehensive about the Bugatti, having found the car rather difficult to handle on this type of course race.

THE LATE DUKE

John Charles William Fitzroy, ninth Duke of Grafton, celebrated his twenty-second birthday last Saturday. He was the son of Viscount Ipswich, a Lieutenant in the Coldstream Guards, who was killed on active service in 1918, and succeeded his grandfather, the eighth Duke of Grafton, in 1930.

When in 1929 his mother, Viscountess Ipswich, married Lieut.-Colonel Gavin Robert Vernon Hume-Gore, he gave her away.

The young Duke, who was among the new drivers at Brooklands early this year, owned at his seat, Euston Hall, one of the most famous shoots in Norfolk. In December he passed his tests as a glider pilot. He was a member of the Cambridge Gliding Club.

In August, 1930, while he was trying a new motor cycle at Euston Hall, the machine skidded, and the Duke was thrown to the ground, receiving abrasions on his face and hands.

The Duke, who was unmarried, was educated at Harrow and at Trinity College, was the patron of four livings, and hereditary ranger of Whittlebury Forest.

The heir to the Dukedom is Captain Charles Alfred Euston Fitzroy, a son of the late Rev. Lord Charles Edward Fitzroy, fourth son of the seventh Duke. Captain Fitzroy, who was born in 1892, served in the Great War.

ADDIS ABABA SURROUNDED

ITALIANS RUSH HELP BY AIR

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

Addis Ababa is in a state of siege, surrounded by strong forces of Abyssinians, and the Italian garrison has to remain constantly at action stations to keep out the tribesmen, according to messages from a usually trustworthy source reaching the Havas Agency from Port Said.

Although the attack, officially admitted several days ago by Rome to have been made on the capital on July 28th and 29th, was beaten off, it is stated that thousands of warriors are still lurking in the eucalyptus groves around the town, and are making frequent attacks from different directions.

Reinforcements are being rushed up by the Italians by air from Diredawa.

One troop-carrying 'plane is said to have been brought down by Abyssinian marksmen.

BISHOP'S FATE

The attack on July 29th, which is the feast of Abyssinia's patron saint, St. George, is reported to have been launched from three different directions by several thousand warriors under command of Dadjasmatch Aberra, the son of Ras Kassa.

Before the attack a number of tribesmen are said to have got into the town in disguise, thus adding to the difficulties of the garrison.

The Abyssinian Bishop, Petros, was accused by the Italians of having been in league with the enemy, and is reported to have been shot by a firing squad in the street after a drum-head courtmartial.

The Italians are also reported to have ordered all the native inhabitants to keep within doors and to have shut all shops, for fear of a rising by the population.

CRITICAL SITUATION

As already stated by Rome, the attack was beaten off after severe fighting, in which the Abyssinians are claimed to have lost a thousand killed. Nevertheless the situation is described as being still critical.

Another report from the same source says that the Italian garrison at Moggio, about 30 miles from Addis Ababa, was attacked by two thousand tribesmen, who were eventually beaten off.

It is also reported that a motorised column of sixteen lorries was recently ambushed and destroyed, two hundred native troops being wiped out.

AIR LINER WRECKAGE

WASHED UP ON FRENCH COAST

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CHERBOURG, Monday.

A fragment of a damaged wing of a 'plane about 18ft. long, believed to belong to the missing Channel Islands air liner Cloud of Iona, has been seen near the Minquiers Reef by the French yacht Chantecler, the commander of which has informed the Maritime Prefecture.

The float of a seaplane marked U 2 1980 has also been thrown up by the sea on the beach at Annoville, on the French coast opposite Jersey, and has been taken by the gendarmerie to Montmartin-sur-Mer, north of Granville.

An official of the Channel Island Airways, parent company of the owners of the Cloud of Iona, said to-day that they had asked that a sharp look-out should be kept throughout the Channel Islands, and on the nearest section of the French coast, for any bodies or wreckage that might be cast up. He added that the confidence of the public in the company's services had not been shaken by the tragedy.

"We are carrying as many passengers as we were before, and our traffic shows an increase of 40 per cent. on last year."

The Minister for Air (Lord Winton) yesterday sent the following telegram to Jersey Airways: "Deeply regret disaster to Cloud of Iona. Please convey an expression of my sympathy to the relatives of those who have lost their lives."

GERMAN WARSHIP'S BELL RETURNED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

KIEL, Monday.

A special mission of friendship towards the German Navy is being carried out by the British cruiser Neptune, which arrived here this morning.

She has on board the ship's bell of the former German battle-cruiser Hindenburg, which was scuttled at Scapa Flow after the surrender of the German Fleet in Britain.

The bell, which is now on a special stand decorated with the German colours, will be formally handed over to the German naval authorities within the next day or two.

AGED PEER'S DEATH

FALL IN RIVER WHILE FISHING

A FORMER LORD CHIEF JUSTICE

LORD TREVETHIN fell into the River Wye, near Builth Wells, Breconshire, while fishing last night, and was dead when taken out by a fishing party. It is presumed that he had a seizure.

Lord Trevethin, who was 92, was the first Baron, and was Lord Chief Justice of England from 1921 to 1922. One of his sons is Mr. Justice Lawrence, a judge of the King's Bench Division.

Lord Trevethin, who was raised to the Peerage in 1921, was knighted in 1904, when he became a judge of the High Court. In 1869 he was made Recorder of Windsor, an office he held until going to the High Court. He was a High Court judge for seventeen years, and towards the end of that period became President of the War Compensation Court.

HIS FAVOURITE SPORT

Salmon fishing was the favourite sport of Lord Trevethin. Normally he fished with great zest and vigour in the waters of the Wye near his own home. He was reputed to have known every boulder and every feature of the river bed in those waters.

Yesterday he was on unaccustomed ground—fishing with a party in waters belonging to his friend, Commander A. T. Wilson, of Garth House, Breconshire. Here the river bed and bank is very rocky—the reason for the name of the spot, "Rocks Waters."

For some time Lord Trevethin had been fishing for some little distance from the other members of the party. He was wading in the shallower water near one bank when suddenly, without any cry of warning, he seemed to stumble and fall forward into the quickly-moving current.

BODY TAKEN FROM WATER

Nearby on the bank his chauffeur saw what had happened, and, with the assistance of another man, Mr. Owen Davis, a local schoolmaster, he dashed to the rescue of the aged peer. It was only a matter of minutes before he, unconscious, was lifted from the water and carried to the bank. On his head there was a cut, and it is not known whether he fell as the result of a seizure, or whether he stumbled on some unfamiliar foothold and struck his head on another rock.

By this time the alarm had been raised, and other members of the party, as well as sightseers at the picturesque spot, were rushing to offer assistance. For some time restoratives and artificial respiration were applied in an effort to resuscitate Lord Trevethin, but he died.

Later, in a motor car, its blinds drawn, he was taken home—about four and a-half miles away from the scene of the tragedy.

IN DEEP WATER

Mr. W. G. Whiteman, B.Sc., the Mathematics Master at the Builth Wells Secondary School, who lives almost opposite the scene of the occurrence, stated last night: "There had been a party fishing in Rocks Waters all the day. Two or three members of it were opposite my house. Lord Trevethin was a little higher up the river, and was wading near the bank. I saw some excitement, and noticed that people were running along the opposite bank of the river towards the spot where Lord Trevethin had been.

Next I saw that a young schoolmaster, Owen Davis, was in the river and had got hold of Lord Trevethin and was bearing him to the bank. He was in deep water just then; other people went rushing to his help.

"No one quite knows what happened, but Lord Trevethin was over ninety years of age, and the water was very cold. That may have had something to do with it. The river, too, was running rather faster than its normal rate, and was above summer level. Everything possible was done for Lord Trevethin, but he did not regain consciousness."

Mr. Owen Davis minimised his part in the rescue. He went home, changed his wet clothing, mentioned briefly what had happened and went out again.

Mr. Justice Lawrence, Lord Trevethin's youngest son, is staying at his country home at Oaksey, Swindon.

When a reporter telephoned the house last night it was stated: "We have only just been informed of the tragedy, which, of course, has come as a great shock."

GERMANY BANS HUNTING AS "UNFAIR" TO ANIMALS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

The hunting of all animals with horse and hounds was forbidden to-day by General Goering, in his capacity as Reich Master of the Hunt.

It was stated in competent circles that the reason for the ban was that such hunting is "unfair" to the animals.

HUNDRED METRES FINAL

FINE VICTORY FOR OWENS

BRITISH RUNNERS FAIL

OLYMPIC HAMMER RECORD

OLYMPIC STADIUM, BERLIN, Monday.

ALTHOUGH running in slightly unfavourable conditions, with the track damp after a heavy afternoon shower, Jesse Owens, the American "black streak," flashed over the 100 metres in the world record time of 10.3 secs. to win the Olympic title here to-day. This was his reply to the disappointing news he received this morning that the International Amateur Athletic Federation had declined to recognise as a world record the 10 2-10 secs. he did in the heats yesterday. Their reason was that he was favoured by the wind.

There does not seem to be any doubt, however, that to-day's figures will get his name placed beside those of Percy Williams (Canada), Ralph Metcalf (U.S.A.) and Eddie Tolan (U.S.A.) as the holder of the world record. What a splendid runner Owens must be can be seen from the fact that he has twice equalled and once beaten world record figures in two days.

A FINE HAMMER THROW

Other fine performances to-day were those of Miss Helen Stephens, another American, who broke the world's 100 metres record for women with 11.4 secs.; and the Germans, K. Hein and E. Blask, who both beat Olympic and German records with 185 ft. 4 9-10 ins. and 180 ft. 7 ins. respectively for the hammer throw. Hein's victory gave Germany her third Olympic title, and Owens's was the third for U.S.A.

The only bright spot in a bad day for Britain was B. F. McCabe's splendid effort in reaching the final of the 800 metres, an event which Britain has held at every Olympiad since the War. In the other semi-final heats of this event, however, F. R. Handley and J. V. Powell failed to qualify, while A. W. Sweeney and A. Pennington were unplaced in the 100 metres semi-finals.

More British failures had to be recorded in the 3,000 metres steeplechase, in which T. Evenson and J. Ginty failed to get past the first round of the heats.

The women could do little better. Miss Barbara Burke, the 19-year-old South African champion, who ran for Britain on a birth qualification, and Miss Eileen Hiscock, failed to reach the final of the 100 metres after winning their first round heats. Miss Audrey Brown, sister of A. G. K. Brown, the quarter-miler, was eliminated in her first heat.

McCabe, who was regarded only as Britain's third string in the 800 metres, fully deserved to enter the final. He ran a very fine race, going steadily within easy distance of the leaders until 300 metres, when he spurted into the lead. At 400 metres he fell back second to the Norwegian, Johannsen, whose time for the half-distance was 56.3 secs. McCabe fell further behind, and was lying fourth in the back straight, with the Norwegian still in the lead, the American, Hornbostel, second, and Verhardt (Belgium) third.

McCabe, however, was fighting strongly, and passed Verhardt and Johannsen coming round the final bend. At this point Lanzi, the Italian, made his effort, and rushed past McCabe to join Hornbostel into the turn to the straight. McCabe, however, held on, and ran into third place, comfortably finishing about fifteen yards behind the winner.

BRITISH FAILURES

Both Powell and Handley would probably have stood a better chance of getting through to the final if they had not made their efforts too soon. Powell, drawn seventh, went into second place to Phil Edwards (Canada) after rounding the first bend. They went on in this order to the half-way mark, where Edwards was only two yards in the lead, but others followed closely. Powell held on to second place along the back stretch, but those behind him soon showed that they had been reserving themselves. At the penultimate bend the American, Williamson, dashed into second place, and round the final turn Powell dropped back to third place. Backhouse, the Australian champion, then made a great effort, but failed to catch Williamson, who won, with Backhouse second, Edwards third, and Powell ten yards behind fourth.

Handley was badly drawn on the outside, which put him at a disadvantage, as the start was near the bend. The American, Woodruff, soon opened up a big gap, and led by twenty-five yards at the 400 metres. He continued to go ahead, and Handley, who had been lying fifth, made his effort on the back stretch and ran into second place. He maintained this position turning into the straight, but he was a long way behind Woodruff, who contiued to run well within himself. Handley, however, had taken too much out of himself by his early effort, and he gradually dropped back, and failed to finish among the first half dozen. It is interesting to note that Americans won all three semi-final heats in the 800 metres.

In the 100 metres semi-finals Pennington was badly away, and was always running last. Owens did not attempt to leave his rivals until the last twenty yards, and won easily in 10.4 secs. Sweeney, too, was always fighting a losing battle in the other semi-final, and was always last but one, although not more than six yards behind the winner, Metcalf.

After a handshake all round, the runners in the final of the 100 metres got off to a fast start, with Owens and Osendarp, the Dutch holder of the A.A.A. 100 yards title, leading. Metcalf forged ahead after thirty yards, nd at 70 yards it seemed that he might win, but Owens came along with a magnificent and irresistible spurt which pulled him clear of the field over the last thirty yards. He finished strongly, and won by about a foot from Metcalf, who got home just in front of Osendarp. Wykoff, the holder of the world's 100 yards record, finished inches behind fourth

END OF FRENCH SHIPYARD STRIKE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ST. NAZAIRE, Monday

The five weeks' old strike in the metal industry here, which affected between ten and twelve thousand workers, and held up the construction of three new French warships, ended this afternoon.

The owners' proposals, submitted to the strikers after the return of the delegation from Paris on Saturday, were accepted by an overwhelming vote—5,039 to 707, and work will shortly be resumed in the shipyards.

WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIP

BISHOP OF ROSS PROTESTS

"PROFANATION OF THE LORD'S DAY"

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

SKIBBEREEN, Monday.

AT the Masses in the Pro-Cathedral here to-day the Most Rev. Dr. Casey, Bishop of Ross, denounced the holding of the proposed wrestling contest between Dan O'Mahony and Rube Wright on a Sunday. He had anticipated in vain, he said, a public protest being made against the match being held on a Sunday. Amusement within reason was permissible on the Lord's Day, but the contemplated fight in Dublin was beyond the limitations of the proper observance of that day. The chief character in the contest was a simple man, who, he learned from a prominent American Church dignitary, was, while in the United States, most exemplary from the religious aspect, and whose conduct was irreproachable, and was in direct contrast to some other Irishmen who gained prominence there. The manner in which the public Press was boosting the affair was not in accordance with the Catholic spirit, and he appealed to the friends of the Irish wrestler to prevail on him to refrain from prostituting his God-given physical abilities by profanation of the Lord's Day.

AN EXAMPLE

A world-renowned athlete of half a century ago, another West Cork man, refused to profane Holy Week by competing in a contest, although the world championship was at stake, and the act enhanced his reputation a thousand times. If a similar course was followed in the present instance it would create a higher public opinion in favour of the champion wrestler.

Wrestling, from what he understood it to be, was a cruel form of sport, and was not elevating to witness on any day, least of all on Sunday, and to stage such a fight on the Sabbath was breaking the Law of God. Even in America, which was practically pagan, it would not be allowed. He again appealed to the people of West Cork, who could be said to be most interested, to protest against the staging of the proposed contest on Sunday.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE PAST SESSION

The Times, in a leading article, after referring to measures passed during the Parliamentary session, remarks:—The feature of the session has been the fact that legislation has not been the main pre-occupation of Parliament. Almost every dramatic or well-contested debate has been concerned either with foreign affairs or with defence. The course of foreign affairs has been marked by such a series of shocks that it might well have upset the balance and the cohesion of an ordinary Parliamentary majority. There have been occasions when discontent has been widespread, and it is still not completely eliminated—but serious divisions, such as those which caused the break-up of the Coalition in 1922, have been averted for five main reasons.

The first is, that industrial recovery has continued at home, and on the eve of the adjournment the Minister of Labour was able to announce a further reduction of 50,000 in the number of the unemployed. Though it is true that the public are probably to-day taking a greater interest in foreign affairs than ever before, the bulk of them remain not uninfluenced by conditions at home, and the knowledge of growing prosperity has certainly helped to pull the Government through some awkward debates. The second reason is the growing importance attached to the private members' committees formed by the Government's supporters. The Foreign Affairs Committee, in particular, has discharged an invaluable function in securing a medium for the exchange of opinions, the ventilation of feelings and the reconciliation of conclusions.

In the third place, the Opposition, mainly because they are deeply divided, have not succeeded in embarrassing the Government at all seriously, and when embarrassment has arisen they have not succeeded in rubbing it in. As one parliamentary wag has put it, they are expert at snatching defeat from the jaws of victory. No one, as the by-elections have shown, is going to kill Charles in order to make James king, however irritating the continued existence of Charles may be. In the fourth place, criticisms of the Government have too often seemed to contain a personal note, and this is resented by the Prime Minister's supporters, who are determined that, if and when he surrenders his burden, he should do so in his own good time.

Lastly, there is the rallying force of deep-seated agreement on the necessity for carrying out the defence programme at top speed. It is understood that the recent prolonged interviews between the Government and a deputation of their more anxious or critical supporters gave increased satisfaction to both sides. It was wise of the Government to grant these interviews, for nothing could more certainly produce a disintegration of their forces than any suspicion that they were leaving anything undone now to make good the basic insurance against every possible development of foreign affairs.

Mr. John L. Esmonde, who has been selected to stand as Fine Gael candidate in the coming Wexford by-election.

Fifty-eight British representatives attended the opening meeting of the International Miners' Congress at Prague yesterday, says Reuter. One of the first resolutions adopted was one demanding a maximum working day of six hours and a 36-hour week.

INSURGENT BID FOR SAN SEBASTIAN

ARTILLERY DUEL IN PROGRESS OUTSIDE THE TOWN

GRAVE SITUATION IN BARCELONA

WARSHIPS IN ACTION OFF GIBRALTAR

APART from the usual crop of contradictory reports about the civil war in Spain, interest to-day seems to be centring in Barcelona, where, it is reported, the extremists are gaining ground daily, and "serious trouble" is feared.

While the Government forces claim to have captured La Zaida and to be pushing on towards Saragossa, the insurgent stronghold, it is reported from different sources that the rebels have captured Caspe, a town on the Saragossa front.

Badajoz, famous in British military history, which Wellington's troops stormed with fearful slaughter 124 years ago, is menaced by the insurgents, who have reached the outskirts of the town.

With the arrival of strong reinforcements from Valencia it is expected that the Government will launch a determined offensive against the enemy in the mountains near Madrid. San Sebastian is still held by Government forces, who claim to have blocked the rebels' main outlet to the sea in this region.

Crowds of spectators on Europa Point, Gibraltar, watched a three-hours' artillery duel yesterday between two Government warships and the insurgent batteries at Tarifa and Ceuta, which did no serious damage, and was described by British gunners as "sheer waste of ammunition."

The delicate question of foreign aid has taken on a new seriousness by the reported delivery to the insurgents of twelve Caproni and two Junker aeroplanes.

BIG GUNS HEARD ON FRONTIER

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, Monday.

Artillery fire was heard continuously here to-day from the direction of the frontier, where the rebels are understood to be making an attack in an attempt to reach San Sebastian.

San Sebastian itself is reported to be quiet.

While the British Ambassador (Sir H. Chilton) has moved to Hendaye, arriving here on Saturday aboard a British warship, there is still a British Embassy office at Irun besides those of Italy and the other nations. It is understood the British Ambassador transferred to Hendaye because of the difficulty of communications.

The British Consul at San Sebastian, after arranging for the evacuation of all Britishers who wished to leave, has transferred to St. Jean de Luz, but the Consulate is still open at San Sebastian for inquiries.

TROUBLE FEARED IN BARCELONA

GROWING POWER OF THE EXTREMISTS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MARSEILLES, Monday.

Seventy-six more refugees from Spain, including thirty British, arrived here to-day on board H.M.S. Gipsy.

The refugees state that the extremists are gaining ground daily in Barcelona, and that they are afraid that there will soon be serious trouble there.

The extremists, however, are behaving courteously to British visitors.

Refugees state that there are persistent rumours that Caspe, on the Saragossa front, has fallen to the rebels.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HENDAYE, Monday.

According to reports received here from Barcelona, some of the passes issued to individuals by the authorities bear the stamp "Unified Socialist Party of Catalonia, attached to the International Communist Central Committee."

MILITARY ACTIVITY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BARCELONA, Monday.

Great activity is being shown by the Government forces here, and many rumours are current concerning the fighting in the Saragossa region.

The Maritime Club, formerly an exclusive yacht club, has been turned into a refugee camp for British residents by special permission of the National Labour Confederation, which is doing everything in its power to be helpful. At the moment there are some twenty Britons staying in the club. The only requirements for "membership" are:—

1. A British passport.
2. A mattress and blankets.

The Labour Confederation is providing food and drink, and the mere suggestion by a Britisher to offer payment is laughed at. In short, they are showing us the utmost courtesy under extremely difficult circumstances.

BRITON SAVES THIEF

The seriousness with which these young Communists take their cause was illustrated in the case of an Englishman stopping in the refugee camp who found his watch missing. He informed the guard. Immediately action was taken, and within half an hour the thief disgorged the watch. The matter, however, did not end there, as under the new régime, a crime had been committed which could be punished only by death.

To the Englishman's horror, the guard prepared to shoot the culprit on the spot. Only through the Englishman's pleading, and the assurance to the guard that the whole British nation would be thankful if the prisoner was let off, was he released.

The guard afterwards told the Englishman that no prisoners could be taken, as there were no more prisons.

SARAGOSSA BOMBED FROM THE AIR

SUCCESSES CLAIMED FOR CATALAN 'PLANES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BARCELONA, Monday.

Colonel Sandino, the head of the Catalan aviation, states that a heavy bombardment of Saragossa was carried out by sixteen Government 'planes, and all the positions on the Aragon front occupied by the insurgents.

Public buildings occupied by the insurgents were bombed, and considerable damage effected.

The Loyalist forces are strengthening their positions around Saragossa, the communiqué adds. The insurgent cavalry tried to make an encircling movement, but were repulsed, and finally dispersed by Government 'planes.

It is stated that a large number of insurgents surrendered, and that all are in a "lamentable" physical condition.

"SHEER WASTE OF AMMUNITION"

NAVAL BOMBARDMENT OFF GIBRALTAR

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GIBRALTAR, Monday.

For three hours to-day the Spanish Government battleship Jaime I., assisted by the cruiser Libertad and a destroyer, bombarded the insurgent batteries at Tarifa and Ceuta, on the two sides of the Straits. The insurgents replied, but, although some of their shells exploded very near to the warships, they do not seem to have done any damage.

The duel was clearly visible from Europa Point, south of Gibraltar, where thousands of spectators gathered to watch the battle.

The Jaime I. mounts eight 12-inch guns and twenty 4-inch, while the Libertad has a main armament of eight modern 6-inch guns.

"Sheer waste of ammunition" was the verdict of members of the Royal Artillery to Reuter's correspondent upon this and similar gunnery duels between the Spanish warships and their opponents in this neighbourhood.

The British gunners remarked that some three hundred rounds had been fired by the two sides, but that so far as could be seen no damage had been done.

His Majesty's battleship Queen Elizabeth arrived here this afternoon. Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet, who arrived recently from Malta, is transferring his flag to the Queen Elizabeth from the cruiser Ajax.

MADRID REPORTED SAFE

INSURGENTS SHORT OF SUPPLIES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Monday.

It is strongly believed here that, as a result of the recent operations on the Guadarrama front, and the arrival of strong pro-Government reinforcements here from Valencia, the anti-Government forces north-west of the capital will have to fall back on Segovia, twenty miles to the north. The insurgent artillery are claimed to be firing less and less, and their aim is becoming more uncertain.

The fire raging in the pinewoods on the mountains has spread towards the insurgent entrenchments in the Leon Pass, so that they are said to be ringed with flame. General Riquelme, the Government leader, declares that he hopes to be able to advance rapidly through the Pass, and General Mangada's column is expected to link up with his forces on Tuesday or on Wednesday.

Major Valderrama Pimentel, who was appointed commander of the insurgent forces on the Guadarrama front on Saturday, is reported to have been killed in action yesterday.

Deserters from the insurgent ranks are arriving in a piteous state, and [illegible] that they have been [illegible] for a number of days without supplies. They say that the men are now refusing to go on [illegible]

ISSUES IN THE BY-ELECTIONS

NOMINATIONS AT GALWAY TO-DAY

REPUBLICANS ALTER FIANNA FAIL PROSPECTS

THE UNITED IRELAND PARTY'S POSITION IN WEXFORD

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

THE fight in the two constituencies of Galway and Wexford is now in full swing. Politicians of all parties admit that upon the results very big issues will depend, and for this reason the progress of events is being eagerly watched.

The uncertainty of the outcome is generally admitted; for, owing to the entrance in both areas of other than the candidates of the two main parties, it is not possible to gauge the results by previous contests.

In Galway, where the nominations take place to-day, there will be a Republican, as well as representatives of the Government and the United Ireland parties. The intervention of Count Plunkett as the candidate of the Cumann na Pobhlachta creates a new situation there.

At the by-election in June of last year the Fianna Fail Party polled about 8,000 fewer votes than at the general election in 1933. The suggestion is that this defection was due to the withholding of the advanced Republican vote from Fianna Fail. These apparently did not go to the poll at all. The United Ireland candidate certainly did not get them, as his poll was only slightly higher than was that at the previous general election.

It is not to be thought, however, that those who abstained were all Republicans, but rather that they were simply disgruntled electors, and it is, therefore, the task of the United Ireland Party to secure them. In this effort much reliance is placed on the personal "pull" of their candidate, whose local influence is regarded as a powerful asset.

Professor Hogan has already got assurances of support from both the Republican wings, and, in all the circumstances, the United Ireland Party leaders are reported to be very optimistic.

A DISTURBING FACTOR

It is clear that the Fianna Fail Party are most seriously concerned with the situation created by the advance of the Cumann na Poblachta, both in Galway and Wexford. It was to them mainly that President de Valera addressed himself last week in Galway and on Sunday in Wexford. He referred to what had been accomplished in the way of making the ground clear for all Republicans to co-operate, and he continued to hint at the completion of this work in the new Constitution; but he failed to give any further details of his scheme beyond saying that the Governor-Generalship was nine-tenths gone, and that the remaining tenth would soon be gone.

He still hesitates to give an answer to the definite question which Mr. Dillon put in the Dail last week—namely, whether the King would still be associated with the Oireachtas. That, of course, is the only thing that matters. A statement on this point would naturally be of interest to the advanced Republicans, as it would to a much wider circle; but the time is not apparently ripe for such a disclosure.

CANDIDATE'S HINT

In this connection the hint thrown out by Professor Hogan at Loughrea on Sunday as to the possibility of negotiating a new treaty with Britain after the economic war had been settled has excited some interest. The candidate will, no doubt, further elaborate this proposal as the campaign progresses. Other matters which a wider public would like to see discussed, and some answer given by authoritative Government speakers, are Mr. Dillon's allegations as to the provisions of the new Land Bill which appear to endanger the farmers' security of tenure.

The three F's—Fair Rent, Fixity of Tenure and Free Sale—which were won by an earlier generation of politicians after many hard-fought battles are something which it would be a grievous wrong for an Irish Government to take away. There is also the matter of securing all the privileges which it is possible to obtain in connection with the food problems which are now agitating Great Britain.

SITUATION IN WEXFORD

If, as seems likely, the Labour Party and the Republicans put up candidates for Wexford the fight in that constituency will be particularly piquant. Labour appears to be certain to go forward. A decision will be taken at a convention to be held to-morrow. Just how far this will affect the issue is not clear.

Mr. Corish, who is the sitting Labour representative, got 8,214 first preferences at the last general election, while Fianna Fail got 19,567, Cumann na Gaedhael 16,022, and the Centre Party 3,606. The latter will probably go to United Ireland Party in the present contest, so that on the figures it should win. A good deal, however, will depend on how the second and subsequent votes are cast.

COUNTY GALWAY SPEECHES

DIFFERENT PARTY VIEWS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LOUGHREA, Monday.

Professor Hogan, the United Ireland Party candidate for Galway, speaking at Loughrea to-day, said that the people had to decide between two parties in this contest, one of which required some sort of an accommodation with England, and the other which stood for an Irish Republic.

Judging by its leadership, the Republic would lead in the long run to a Communist Republic.

BEET AND BACON

Mr. M. Corry, T.D. (F.F., East Cork), speaking at Kilmeen (Co. Galway) said that Mr. Dillon had stated that Fine Gael would do away with Fianna Fail policy regarding beet and wheat. The farmers of Galway this year would, he said, be paid over £260,000 for beet, and every vote cast for Hogan meant a vote to close the Tuam factory and take the money from the farmers of Galway. Mr. Dillon also attacked beet prices here, but the Irish farmer received from five to seven shillings per ton more for his beet than English farmers.

Mr. Dillon also said that they had ruined the pig trade. In 1935 they exported £2,389,000 worth of bacon, and supplied the Irish people with over half a million pounds' worth in the same year; in other words, the Irish farmer received for his bacon in 1935 £3,000,000 more than he got in 1932.

HOUSING PROGRAMMES

Fine Gael had also said that the present Government increased taxation.

"Yes," said the speaker, "we have; in 1931 £1,660,000 was spent on public works and housing, and in 1935 we spent £5,000,000 for the same purpose. Cumann na nGaedheal built 25,000 houses in ten years, none of which were built for the farming population; and Fianna Fail had built 40,000 houses in four years. Sites acquired for labourers' cottages in 1914 were not utilised up to 1932, but now the labourers' cottages scheme was going full steam ahead, and in three years every rural labourer would at least have a decent house.

Mr. T. Crowley, T.D., speaking at Craughwell, said that it was not clear what the policy of Fine Gael would be if in power.

Regarding factories established within the last few years, he asked would they close the factory at Tuam and deprive the farmers of the market they had for beet.

LEGAL BATTLE OVER SHILLING RAKE

A fourteen hour legal battle has been fought over a hay rake worth one shilling in the court at Sogn, Norway. At the beginning of the case the magistrate tried every possible means to persuade the parties to agree. He even offered to pay two shillings out of his own pocket so that each could have a shilling and the rake could be thrown away, but the claimants refused to be placated. They called twenty witnesses and insisted upon complete investigation of every statement.

At the end of the fourteen hours hearing the winner marched triumphantly out of Court with the hay rake over his shoulder

LIMERICK CAR RACE

WON BY BELFAST MAN

FAST DRIVERS IN THRILLING DUEL

FROM OUR MOTORING CORRESPONDENT.

LIMERICK, Monday.

THE Limerick Grand Prix to-day was the most exciting race that has ever been seen in Ireland. The pace from the start was so fast that the competitors all the time were driving very close to the safety margin. There were many thrills at corners; once J. Toohey (Ford) turned completely round in a skid. T. P. Cholmondeley Tapper, in a Maserati, provided numerous thrills when his car charged on the pavement in William street. Cars came round bends so close together that it was amazing they did not collide.

The race was won by A. Hutchinson, of Belfast, driving J. W. Patterson's M.G. He was one of the few competitors who drove without fireworks, and at the end of the race said that he had had a featureless ride. Hutchinson was giving a lap start to G. A. Mangan in another M.G. Within a very short time he had made up that lap, and until the finish he held his lead. For a time he was followed by Mangan and David Yule (C.M.Y. Special). The middle-markers started to come up, and by the fortieth lap of fifty-five, making up the distance of the race, Ivo Peters (Frazer-Nash) was in second place, with C. H. W. Manders (Adler) third.

A DUEL

In the meantime chief interest had been in a duel between B. Bira, the Siamese Prince, and A. C. Dobson, both in E.R.A.'s. Time after time they smashed the lap record, first one and then the other pushing the speed up to new figures. Eventually Dobson left the record at 73.34 m.p.h. This private scrap between the two fastest drivers in the race brought the crowd to its feet as they passed and repassed, sometimes at 100 miles per hour.

At an early stage it had been announced that "Bira" and Hutchinson—the eventual winner—were doing best on handicap. The speed of the E.R.A. duel soon brought "Bira" and Dobson in advance of Hutchinson. A. Powys-Lybbe (Alfa Romeo) and Ivo Peters (Frazer Nash) also were coming into the picture.

At 4.20 o'clock, with the race entering its last hour, those doing best on handicap were "Bira," Dobson, Powys-Lybbe, Hutchinson and Peters, in that order.

QUICK CHANGES

Then the race underwent one of those quick changes such as happened in the Leinster Trophy—"Bira" was out with locking brakes, and Powys-Lybbe left almost simultaneously with clutch trouble. The two little Austins driven by C. J. P. Dobson and Charles Goodacre already were retired with engine trouble. A. C. Dobson's chief opposition seemed to have disappeared. He eased up, took from five to ten seconds longer than his normal for four successive laps, and that lost him the race. On the four laps he lost thirty seconds, and he lost the race only by sixteen.

T. P. Cholmondeley Tapper took over from Miss Eileen Ellison and forced up the speed of the Maserati. The other woman driver, Mrs. Wisdom, was pegging along steadily in a Riley which did not seem to be as fast as it should. With fifteen laps to go, Dobson was 6 mins. and 22 secs. behind Hutchinson. Could he regain that amount of time? He made a great effort, and it is probable that if the race had been a lap longer he would have won. As it was, Hutchinson got home first to win the second race in which he had taken part.

Englishmen were second and third and a Dublin man fourth. There were twenty-four starters and ten finished—a good proportion in such a gruelling race.

RESULTS

1—A. Hutchinson, 939 c.c. M.G., 2 hrs. 9 mins. 56 secs., speed 57.14 m.p.h.

2—A. C. Dobson, 1,488 c.c. E.R.A., 2 hrs. 10 mins. 12 secs., 69.69 m.p.h.

4—C. H. W. Manders, 1,645 c.c. Adler, 2 hrs. 16 mins., 57.44 m.p.h.

5—Sir A. W. MacRobert, 1,087 c.c. M.G., 2 hrs. 19 mins. 24 secs., 60.37 m.p.h.

Maclure won the 1,100 c.c. class. Dobson the 2,000 c.c. class, and Miss Ellison and Cholmondeley Tapper the over 2,000 c.c. class.

OBITUARY

CAPTAIN EDWIN LANDY

The death took place suddenly on Sunday evening at his sister's residence, Newpark, The Ward, Co. Dublin, of Captain Edwin Landy, who was for over thirty years in the service of the Canadian Pacific Line, during which time he commanded some of the company's largest vessels. Captain Landy was the second youngest son of the late Mr. Andrew Landy, of Skerries, where he was born some sixty-three years ago. He went to sea in one of the old sailing vessels at the age of sixteen. At twenty-five he joined one of the Canadian Pacific Company's ships, and had a romantic career, especially during his service with the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve in the Great War period, when vessels under his command were twice torpedoed and once sunk by a mine, one of the vessels being the Ionian, which was attacked by a German submarine off St. Govan's Head, near Milford, in October, 1917. He was also in command of the Monmouth, which was mined off Cherbourg; but on two of the occasions mentioned Captain Landy succeeded in saving his badly damaged ship. In the early days of the war he was also deputed by the British Government to bring to Liverpool the large enemy vessel, the Henrietta Woerman, which had been seized off the Gold Coast, and did so successfully.

Among the large liners under his charge were the Melita and the C.P.R. Company's Montcalm. While in command of the last-named Captain Landy was the central figure in the dramatic rescue of the passengers and crew of a burning steamship in the Atlantic, when he was instrumental in saving many lives.

Captain Landy, who retired about three years ago, and had since resided at Wallasey, had come to Ireland on a visit on Friday last. He was a brother of the late Mr. John Landy, of the Bakery, Rathfarnham, Co. Dublin, and was married about twenty years. His widow survives him. The funeral takes place today to the family burial ground, Skerries.

DR. SAMUEL H. B. ALLISON

The death occurred at his residence, Millfield, Killaloo, County Derry, of Dr. Samuel H. B. Allison, B.A., M.B., for over forty years dispensary doctor of Claudy and Park, County Derry. He began his career in England, after graduating in Edinburgh, and, on the resignation of his father, the late Dr. W. Allison, was unanimously appointed to the vacancy. One of his three brothers was the late Mr. W. N. B. Allison, a master in Foyle College, Derry, and afterwards in Campbell College.

DR. J. W. WALLACE

Dr. James Waldo Wallace, whose death occurred suddenly on the British India Steam Navigation Company's liner, Madeira, at Marseilles on Sunday, was the younger son of the late Rev. J. C. Wallace, Raphoe, and brother of the Rev. F. W. C. Wallace, M.A., Maghermason, near Londonderry. Dr. Wallace, who was about forty-one years of age, belonged to the Sudan Medical Service. He was returning to the Sudan after a holiday at home when his death occurred.

heights, and that the machine-guns are being worked by officers and Fascist volunteers.

The Government forces have begun an enveloping movement which is intended to help the Civil Guards, storm troops and the militia, who are attacking the insurgent position from the front.

A DIFFERENT STORY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

It is announced by radio from Seville, which is in the hands of insurgents, that an anti-Government column of troops has left Amora for Madrid in order to complete the encirclement of the capital. Its advance so far has met with no opposition, it is stated.

The broadcast announcement added that troops at the Valencia Barracks had joined the insurgents, and left the barracks, which are now occupied by Government troops. The insurgents are occupying surrounding positions.

Confirmation was announced that Castellon de la Plana, near Valencia, was in the hands of military forces.

INSURGENT SUCCESS IN SARAGOSSA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HENDAYE, Monday.

Reports have reached here that the Spanish insurgents in Saragossa province have captured the town of Caspe, about 120 miles from Barcelona and 60 miles from the City of Saragossa, against which the Government Militia from Barcelona have been carrying out an offensive.

GERMAN WARSHIP AT CEUTA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GIBRALTAR, Monday.

The Ceuta Wireless Station announced to-day that the officers and crew of the German battleship Deutschland were landing there this afternoon.

MOSCOW PROMISES HELP

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Monday.

Although it was one of the hottest days in the history of Moscow, 120,000 trade union workers staged a demonstration in the Red Square here to-day to protest against interference by Italian and German Fascists with "Spanish democracy."

All the trade union members of Moscow Province have pledged themselves to subscribe ½ per cent. of their month's pay for the defence of "Spanish democracy."

FOREIGN AID PROBLEM

The delicate problem of foreign aid in the war is likely to be dealt with further by the French Government in view of circumstantial reports that the Spanish insurgents have received twelve Caproni and two Junkers machines from abroad.

General Franco is apparently relying upon such assistance in the air to transport large forces of troops from Morocco to Spain to help the insurgents.

FRENCH ATTITUDE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT

PARIS, Monday.

The French Government is not, after all, expected at present to issue a statement on the result of its investigations into the affair of the supply of Italian aeroplanes to the Spanish insurgents.

It is now declared in French circles that the inquiry may continue for some weeks, and that meanwhile the Government reserves its "freedom of judgment." In other words, it threatens to depart from its own present attitude of refusing supplies of arms to either side in the civil war unless Italy undertakes that she, for her part, will henceforth adopt a like attitude.

ITALIAN SUSPICIONS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Monday.

Authoritative circles here to-night refuse to make any comment whatever on the French Note regarding non-intervention in Spanish affairs. The fact that the Foreign Minister, Count Ciano, is out of Rome and is not expected to return until to-morrow is understood to be one reason for the extreme reserve in official circles.

The matter of the French Note, however, is dealt with by the Rome Press in lengthy telegrams from Paris and London. The headline of the Giornale d'Italia is really the only Rome comment—it reads: "Agitated Moment in European Political Situation."

In diplomatic and political circles outside official quarters there is a feeling that Italy's reception of the French Note will, to a great extent, depend on Britain's reply. Probably there will be no great keenness to agree to it, as it is felt in Italian circles that the attitude of the French Government is not altogether sincere in the matter.

BELGIUM SELLING ARMS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BRUSSELS, Monday.

Both the Spanish Government and the insurgents have been placing orders in Belgium for large quantities of arms.

A Committee of the Cabinet sat this evening to consider the matter, and as a result the Government has decided to set up an arms export licence system pending the planned organisation of control over the manufacture of war munitions.

"NO ACTION" BY U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

The Secretary of State admitted to-day that the United States Government had been approached by the Spanish insurgent leaders for official diplomatic recognition of their cause.

The Government, however, have taken no action.

SPANISH GOLD SENT TO FRANCE

AEROPLANE CARRIES OVER A TON

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LE BOURGET, Monday.

Over a ton of gold from Madrid reached here this afternoon in an aeroplane piloted by the Spanish airman, Señor Gous. The gold, valued at about £220,000, is the fourth consignment to be flown to France from Spain within just over a week. The total value of the four lots is about £742,000.

Señor Gous's 'plane, which took off from Bordeaux earlier in the day, also brought six passengers.

SPANISH 'PLANES DETAINED IN FRANCE

BIARRITZ, Monday.

Two Spanish military 'planes travelling from Madrid to San Sebastian landed here to-day, having lost their way. The two airmen, Joseph Rivera and Pedro Foentes, have been detained by the French police, and the aeroplanes have been placed under a guard.

The 'planes are armed with machine-guns and carry a quantity of ammunition and Government propaganda leaflets.

It is reported here that the Marquis de la Gardara, who lived in Biarritz, has been killed in Spain.

WORLD'S GREATEST DANGER

RE-ARMING OF THE POWERS

LABOUR LEADER ON WAR ALARMS

MR. C. R. ATTLEE, M.P., leader of the Parliamentary Labour Opposition, speaking at a Labour fête in the garden of Thaxted Vicarage, Essex, yesterday, said that Sursum Corda ("Lift up your hearts"), the motto of Haileybury, his old school, was the message he wanted to give out, because there was a great deal of talk everywhere to-day that people should be afraid.

The reason to-day that we had re-armament and everyone was talking of war was that the attempt had been made to build peace on the rotten foundation of the Treaty of Versailles, and to form a new world on the dominance of certain Powers and upon a rotten economic system.

RIVAL POWER GROUPS

One of the greatest dangers in the world to-day was the formation of rival Power groups, going back to the old competition, the old armaments building, and the old struggle for empire, which must inevitably lead to another war.

If a strong lead had been given in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, this country could have won the lead for peace.

"I can have no trust that our Government will stand straight by the League and by the cause of peace," Mr. Attlee said. "We have had too much deception to be able to trust them again. It is a very serious thing when a country like ours does not give a clear lead, because everyone I know who is well acquainted with foreign affairs says that when Britain gives a lead she always rallies the nations to her."

At the back of all our troubles was the economic distress in the world.

THE QUEEN MARY'S RETURN VOYAGE

AN AVERAGE SPEED OF 29.79 KNOTS

The Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary, it is announced from Liverpool, reached Cherbourg yesterday from New York, having completed the voyage from the Ambrose Lightship in four days nine hours. Her average speed was 29.79 knots.

The record average speed between the Ambrose Light and Bishop Rock, for which the French liner, Normandie, was awarded the Atlantic Blue Riband was 30.31 knots.

The Queen Mary brought 1,861 passengers across the Atlantic. A cabin passenger, Mrs. Sarah Thompson (70), whose home is in Connecticut, died from heart failure on Sunday. Mrs. Thompson was travelling alone.

Holiday-makers and crowds watching the racing at Cowes yesterday had a big thrill when the Queen Mary appeared round the Isle of Wight soon after 2 p.m. She was steaming slowly and made an impressive picture as she was passing the racing yachts. Though she had reduced speed, presumably so as not to do anything to racing craft, the giant liner created a big wash at Cowes. The water came up more than five feet across the front at certain points, and holiday-makers had to jump back. As it was several women were splashed. The Queen Mary gracefully turned to enter Southampton Water.

About twenty minutes after the passing of the Queen Mary through Spithead holiday-makers on Southsea front were taken by surprise by huge waves. Those who had been sitting in deck chairs on the beach had to scramble away in all directions, and handbags, umbrellas, and such articles as luncheon baskets were lost. About 200 deck chairs were swept out to sea. A man waded in the water up to his armpits to rescue his wife's handbag, which contained £50; and another woman, not so fortunate, lost a handbag in which was £5, all the money she had.

A warning of the approaching waves was given by the beach attendant through a megaphone, but it was disregarded by many of the holiday-makers.

MAYOR'S HOUSE BESIEGED

SHOTS FIRED IN FRENCH PARTY RIOT

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

A dispute between supporters of the newly-formed Popular Party (National Communists) led by M. Doriot and those of the Front Populaire led last night to bitter street fighting at Saint-Zacharie (Var.).

A party of Front Populaire supporters broke into the Mayor's house, from which they were only ejected at the point of the revolver, and at dawn a number of gendarmes mounted guard outside his doors and windows.

Late last night the Mayor, who is a strong supporter of the Popular Party, on his way home found his house surrounded by fifty young men, who greeted him with shouts and jeers. He made no attempt to remonstrate with them, but went quietly indoors, while the crowd sang the Internationale. In the meantime his friends had sounded the alarm, and a number of Popular Party members rushed to the spot, apparently prepared for the worst.

Suddenly a shot was fired and, before the authorities knew what was happening, a fierce battle had begun, during which revolvers and rifles were freely used. The rioters finally entered the Mayor's house through a broken ground floor window, but their further progress was barred by the Mayor, who, armed with a revolver, threatened to shoot. His assailants beat a quick retreat, though they continued to mount guard outside his house and were determined to keep him a prisoner.

As the position began to look really threatening the Mayor telephoned to the gendarmerie, and shortly before dawn a body of twenty gendarmes arrived on the spot. They were not strong enough, however, to dislodge the rioters, and further police reinforcements had to be sent for before order was restored.

RADIO ORDERS TO A SPANISH LINER

HELD UP IN SOUTHAMPTON WATER

The well-known Spanish liner, Cristobal Colon (10,000 tons), with 488 passengers on board, anchored in Southampton Water to-day off Fowley, having received a wireless order from the Spanish Government not to proceed to Eailbao, the port for which she was making. She had come from Vera Cruz, Havana and New York.

Captain J. Fano, the commander, and five of the ship's officers, came ashore today to make arrangements for fuel and provisions. The ship will probably enter the docks to-morrow to take on coal and water. Meantime the passengers are remaining on board.

Captain Fano visited the immigration authorities while he was ashore.

FASCISM IN EUROPE

WOMAN M.P.'S VIEW OF THE SITUATION

WHAT A STRONG LEAGUE MIGHT ACCOMPLISH

A PICTURE of the possible danger in Europe if there should be a revolt in Czechoslovakia was painted yesterday by Miss Eleanor Rathbone, Independent member of Parliament for the combined English Universities, speaking at the Independent Labour Party Summer School at Letchworth, Garden City.

"Europe is in immediate danger of the spread of Fascism, beginning with the expansion of Germany," she said. "Herr Hitler's main object is to down Russia, and he is likely to begin with smaller prey, possibly with Danzig, probably with Czechoslovakia, on the pretext of the grievances of the German Czechoslovakian minority.

"The obvious development is a rebellion of this German minority, secretly fostered by Hitler.

"One could imagine what would happen if Germany goes to the rescue. France and Russia are bound by treaty to join in, but the French public are desperately afraid of war, and the Blum Socialist Government is not secure. Any foreign adventure might bring it down.

HITLER'S ANXIETY

"The one thing certain to save Czechoslovakia and postpone conflict with Russia would be a strong League, determined to fulfil its obligations to resist aggression against member States.

"Short of that, military assistance by France and Russia, plus economic sanctions by the rest of the League, including ourselves, might do it.

"Hitler is desperately anxious to secure British friendship, but if he is given to understand that he can safely make an attack eastwards and yet secure our friendly neutrality, Czechoslovakia's fate is sealed.

"There goes another European democracy.

"The Government may be right in thinking that the British public will not risk a fight for Czechoslovakia or anyone else except themselves, but if Czechoslovakia goes there will be a general debacle of democracies in Europe.

A BOOM IN FASCISM

"The smaller Central Powers will seek shelter under one or other of the big dictatorships. If they do that they cannot survive as democracies—they will become Fascists.

"There will be a boom in Fascism all over the world

"As Russia is safely engaged with Germany, or knows herself to be on the eve of a conflict, Japan will feel free to move ahead against China."

TWO VIEWS OF MR. CHURCHILL

SPEECHES AT I.L.P. SUMMER SCHOOL

Mr. Winston Churchill was attacked and defended by two M.P.'s at the Independent Labour Party summer school yesterday at Letchworth City.

"One of the most significant events of 1936," was how Miss Eleanor Rathbone described Mr. Churchill's championing of a resolution last week "which expressed exactly the attitude of the whole pro-League Left-Wing bloc of Liberals and Labour, but coupled it with a demand for adequate armed forces for use in defence of collective security."

"Watch that man carefully," she said. "Dispel prejudice and consider facts about him."

Mr. Fenner Brockway, however, uttered a warning. The I.L.P. would make a great mistake, he said, if it allowed itself to be associated with Mr. Winston Churchill, who was really supporting the League because he saw that the British Empire was threatened by another great Imperialistic-minded nation—Nazi Germany.

DUBLIN GIRL INJURED BY MOTOR CAR

Kathleen Timmons, a young girl, of 104 Francis street, Dublin, was knocked down by a motor car near her home last night, and is detained in the Meath Hospital, suffering from a broken leg and abrasions.

Sixteen thousand children were entertained to a feast of a hundred goats and a hundred bags of rice in Colombo, Ceylon, a few days ago in honour of the prophet Mohamed. Cloth merchants from India paid for it, and, although the portion per head may not have been impressive, the number of guests and the method of their feasting certainly were. The children were served in relays of five hundred, one squad relieving the other as soon as they had drunk the iced water which washed down the repast.

DISORDERS FEARED IN ALGERIA

SEQUEL TO MURDER OF GRAND IMAN

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ALGIERS, Monday.

There is a risk of grave disorders in Algeria as a result of the murder of the Grand Iman of Algiers during the week-end.

The murder is believed to have taken place as the Iman was leaving the mosque. An unknown man, it is stated, plunged a knife into his back in the busy Ru de la Lyre and then disappeared. The fact that the Grand Iman was killed in the Jewish quarter shows that it would only need the slightest spark to start an internal struggle similar to that in Palestine.

The murder appears to be the outcome of a feud between rival factions of Moslems—the Oulemas and the Maraboutistes. The Oulemas are an advanced group of intellectuals, who demand extended rights, including those of French citizenship and parliamentary representation, at the same time retaining the rights of Moslems, such as polygamy and the ability to give daughters in marriage in exchange for dowry. They also maintain that the native civil servants should be chosen from among the intellectuals, and not from religious sects.

There has been considerable divergence of opinion among the Moslems following the sending of a delegation of Oulemas to Paris. On Sunday the delegates proclaimed the result of their mission before a crowd estimated at 30,000 people. Less than an hour afterwards the Grand Iman was murdered.

It has been since revealed that the Grand Iman had sent a telegram to Paris the day before disavowing the delegates, and saying that they represented only a small nucleus of Algerian Moslems.

BOMB BEHIND FAMOUS STATUE

ANARCHIST OUTRAGE IN SPANISH CHURCH

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SARAGOSSA, Monday.

A bomb, it is stated, has been discovered behind the famous statue of the Virgin in the Cathedral of Nuestra Senora del Pilar (Our Lady of the Pillar), to which is attributed miracles that attract pilgrims from all parts of Spain.

It is considered a miracle that the bomb did not explode, and a procession of thanksgiving was made to the altar of the cathedral this evening.

Anarchists are credited with having placed the bomb behind the statue.

HINDU RITES BESIDE THE THAMES

One of the strangest gatherings Berkshire has seen is being held in the grounds of Oakley Court, a Thames-side mansion near Bray. It is the celebration of the Hindu festival of the full moon and the angel of the river.

The Maharajah of Mysore, one of the richest men in the world, has taken the house specially for the festival.

With a dozen of other devout Hindus he spent yesterday praying and fasting. The festival will continue for two days. The main ceremonies are taking place in a secluded arbour near the water's edge. Gates leading to the house are closely watched and the windows are shuttered.

HIGHER TRAM FARES CAUSE MARSEILLES RIOT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MARSEILLES, Monday.

Following an increase in tram fares, which took effect to-day, several hundred workers staged a violent demonstration of protest, over-turning a dozen trams in various parts of the town. There was considerable disorder on the Boulevard la Canebiere, the principal street of Marseilles, and mobile Guards had to be called out to deal with the demonstrators.

NOISY ESCORT FOR BAND

THREE MEN FINED IN BELFAST

"Go on, boys, play up, and give them plenty of it." These were the words alleged to have been used by Richard Madill, High street, Holywood, when rebuked by a head constable for rowdyism at the Albert Memorial, Belfast, on Saturday night while he was escorting the Councillor Cole Flute Band.

At the Belfast Custody Court yesterday Madill and two other men, Samuel J. Smith, Leopold street, and Jonathan Granger, Leopold street, were charged with conducting themselves in a manner likely to provoke a breach of the peace.

Head Constable Brennan said that about 10.15 p.m. he was in charge of a number of police who were escorting the Councillor Cole Flute Band through the city. The band was followed by about 100 youths and girls, all shouting and cheering and jostling people off the footpath. Witness first noticed Madill in High street arm-in-arm with other people, and "carrying on" and shouting. He was one of the ringleaders. At the Albert Clock witness had to get out of the police tender and go over and ask him to stop. Witness asked him to do so in a quiet way, but Madill said he would not stop, and declared: "We own this town and we do not want your armoured cars. Go on, boys, play up, and give them plenty of it."

In all fairness to the band, the witness added, they behaved very well. He had a lot of trouble taking Madill to the barracks, but Madill afterwards apologised.

Constable Hutchinson corroborated, and said that Granger and Smith were going along hand-in-hand. Smith had his cap off. Both were shouting and inciting the crowd that was following the band.

Madill said that he only arrived from Scotland on Saturday. He walked across the town when he saw the band. He apologised for what had happened.

Smith said that he was sorry for the occurrence.

Mr. H. Toppin, R.M., imposed a fine of 40s. on each of the defendants.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

FIVE FAVOURITES WIN

Calder Defeats Wheatfield In a Strenuous Finish

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

SANDOWN PARK, Monday Night.

WE had a fine afternoon for the Bank Holiday meeting at Sandown, and the attendance seemed an unusually good one. There had been a general reduction in prices at this meeting on account of the grant from the Racecourse Betting Board of Control. The reduction applied mostly to the cheaper parts of the course, but there was a slight remission at the top of the very high prices that are charged here.

The racing was very good, probably the best that we shall see for the next few weeks. The Lonsdale Handicap was won by Lord Rosebery's Calder, who, in a strenuous finish, just beat Mr. William Barnett's Trigo filly, Wheatfield, by half a length.

The son of Apelle was all out to win, and his jockey, R. A. Jones, had to ask him to pull out the last ounce to shake off the filly. She had settled down slightly in front of him, but he soon went ahead and made all the rest of the running.

Wore Her Down

All the way up the straight the filly hung on to him, and for everything that he was finding, she was finding just as much. He did wear her down eventually, but only just.

Sir Victor Sassoon's filly, Private Entree, finished third, two lengths away; and another daughter of the grey horse, Prestissimo, who was sent to India a few years ago, finished fourth. Private Entree was baulked for an opening in the straight, but she got through soon enough to win if she had been good enough.

Calder, who is out of that old mare, Lammermuir, the dam of the Two Thousand Guineas winner, Ellangowan, who had to be destroyed last year on account of her age. She has a very good-looking yearling called Muirfield, who will soon be going into training.

Odds-on Chance Beaten

Five favourites won during the afternoon, but the first odds-on chance of the day, the Duke of Portland's Lang Syne, was beaten a length in the Lammas Stakes by Mr. Lambton's Baystar on whom Carslake rode one of his best races.

Then another odds-on chance, Fet, won the Selling High-Weight Handicap by three parts of a length from Gispert, who was afterwards bought in for 200 guineas. He had not won a race since the corresponding event twelve months ago, when he cost 320 guineas to retain.

The second successful favourite was Mr. J. U. Baillie's Cupidity, who beat Mr. J. B. Joel's Sisterly filly and a flashing chestnut from France called Rhodonia by four lengths and three lengths in the Maiden T.Y.O. Plate.

Nothing to Choose

There was nothing to choose on their previous form between Cupidity and Miss Paget's Loftus Hall, a sharp-looking daughter of Tolgus, nor was there in the betting; but Cupidity was the best drawn, while Loftus Hall one of the worst, and there was, at least, half a dozen lengths between them at the finish.

The more important two-year-old race, the Holiday Plate, was easily won by Mr. William Murray's Terror, who beat a French filly, Nadushka, and Bright Hope by three lengths and two lengths.

I have referred here before to the performances of Terror, a son of Soldennis that was bred at Rockingham by Sir Cecil Stafford King-Harman and sold as a yearling for 500 guineas at the Dublin Sales.

Third Success of Season

This gelding goes from strength to strength, and his performance to-day was the best that he has put up. This was his third success of the season. He was giving weight away all round, too, and galloped the rest of them to a standstill.

He is a very good-looking, strongly-made gelding, and he appears to stay well, too. Good as he has shown himself to be this season, the prediction can be made that he will be even better next season. There were some useful youngsters in this race.

A lightly-weighted three-year-old, Balkan Stingo, was a comfortable winner of the Lubbock Sprint Handicap from the six-year-old Golden Boss mare, Miss Elegance, with Vauxstar and Blue Car dead-heating for third place.

Then a fifth favourite, Headquarters, easily won the last race.

An Experiment

After the last meeting on this course, and, indeed, at all the meetings this year, it was noticed that virtually all the races were won by the horses drawn on the stands side of the course. The experiment was tried to-day of putting the stands part of the gate back twelve feet. It made no difference. All the races on the five furlong course were won again by horses drawn on the stands side.

A few years ago all the winners on this five furlong course used to come from among the horses drawn with the high numbers. Why this should be so I will not attempt to explain. One could dogmatise until one was blue about it and yet not arrive at the right solution.

Selections

We have three more meetings to-morrow—a first day at Brighton and the second half of the Birmingham and Ripon fixtures.

Brighton fields look like being small, and the Brighton Stakes may be won by the consistent BLOATER, who seems to represent a good each-way chance. As Solar Bear ran so moderately at Goodwood the danger to Bloater may be Spinifex.

The Marine Plate should be won by HOKEY POKEY, who beat everything at Goodwood except Rosemary's Pet, and the Montpelier Maiden Plate may go to SALENA.

At Birmingham the August Handicap should go to EL SBAA and the Midland Plate to NOBLESSE. With the going as it is, the Packington Welter looks a good thing for ASTYANAX.

The Grand Stand Handicap at Ripon may be won by FERNIEHURST and the Claro Maiden Plate by DOLCOATH.

GALTEE MORE.

BIRTH ROYAL FANCIED

Hokey Pokey's Chance In the Marine Plate at Brighton

ALTHOUGH there are no events of importance at the three meetings tomorrow at Brighton, Birmingham and Ripon, the respective programmes promise attractive racing. Sir Malcolm McAlpine's consistent filly, Birth Royal, will be one of the best-backed candidates for the Brighton Stakes, which is decided over a mile and a half. She was placed second over this distance at Lingfield on her last appearance, and also acted as runner-up in a similar event at Wolverhampton in June.

O'Grady has disappointed several times this season when soundly backed by his connections. This will be his first attempt over twelve furlongs this year, so I shall leave him to show whether he can stay. Spinifex has a chance on his fifth to Flake at Goodwood, for he was not beaten far by the placed horses. Sandstar showed that he can act on an undulating course when he won over the distance at Lewes in June. He is reported to be well fancied for place honours. Red Horizon, who carries Lord Glanely's colours in preference to Winastep, has plenty of stamina, and I expect him to run prominently. My vote goes to on the score of consistency.

Class is not well represented in the Montpelier Plate. I fancy that either Gollywog or Ethiopian will be good enough to win. Gollywog just missed a place when a hot favourite at Wolverhampton early in June, and probably she has made good improvement in the interval.

ETHIOPIAN

has been pleasing in his work at Newmarket during the past month, and I give him the preference.

HOKEY POKEY,

beaten only half a length by Rosemary's Pet at Goodwood, should make amends in the Marine Plate.

KONG

may be equal to beating Orontes and Diosma in the Apprentices' Plate, if a boy can extend her. I am prepared to take this chance.

EL SBAA,

who will have the strong handling of Smirke in the August Handicap, appears to represent the best betting proposition at Birmingham, for over a similar distance (ten furlongs) at Goodwood he ran second to William of Valence—form which was not available when the handicap was framed.

W. Jarvis, who trains for the King and Lord Harewood, registered a "double" at Ripon twelve months ago, and he may repeat the feat with Firestone (Ripon City Handicap) and Freia filly (Studley Plate).

FREIA FILLY,

on her fourth to High Speed at Newmarket, makes particularly strong appeal.

RACING AT PHŒNIX PARK

Exceptionally strong programmes have been arranged for to-morrow and Saturday at the picturesquely situated Phœnix Park course, which is so easy of access from the city. In order to suit the convenience of those attending the Horse Show and bloodstock sales during the day, racing will not commence to-morrow evening until 6.30, and, with 25-minute intervals, the proceedings will conclude at 8.35. The entries are numerous for all the events, which include the Park Plate of £300, and enjoyable sport seems assured.

On Saturday, when a start will be made at 3 o'clock, the richly endowed Phœnix Plate will constitute the chief attraction. This is one of the most important races for two-year-olds decided in Ireland during the season, and arouses great interest, the reason being that it is always contested by a representative field, and rarely fails to provide a fine race.

DENISE ROSE SCORES

Big Crowd Sees Interesting Racing at Baldoyle

IF the attendance at the Baldoyle meeting yesterday may be taken as an indication, the Horse Show this year will break all records as regards attendances. There was a huge crowd, which was composed largely of cross-Channel and foreign visitors, and the racing provided was of a thoroughly enjoyable character. A couple of light showers were the only disagreeable factors in an afternoon which, in a season not particularly favoured as regards weather, was a pleasant one.

WINDSTORM FAILS

Windstorm, the favourite for the Baldoyle Foal Plate, gave a most disappointing display, and never at any stage of the race held out hopes for her backers. The stable companions, Denise Rose and Owenstown, in fact, dominated the race throughout, and the former of the pair, the mount of Joe Canty, though carrying 5lb. over-weight, stayed on the better to win by half a length. The winner is a daughter of Soldennis and Rose Cygnet, who had only run once previously when finishing third to Engagement and Cill Dara for the Beginners' Stakes at the Curragh First May meeting. She is owned by Major E. M. Connolly, who won this race before with Lush Gift, and he has a yearling out of Denise Rose's dam which will come up at the Sales this week. Of the others, Meden Agan, a son of Poor Man, showed up best, and this gelding should win a race for Sir James Nelson before long.

AN OUTSIDER'S SCORE

Three horses shared favouritism for the Stewards' Plate—namely, Homecrest, Aviemore and Springboard—but the winner was not forthcoming from the batch. Of the three, Aviemore made the best showing, but she was relegated into third place, beaten by the two outsiders, Foam and Granovla, the former of this pair scoring a bit comfortably. The winner is a son of Ut Majeur out of Crested Wave, and had only run twice previously, and his form was not very convincing, but in the hands of E. Gardner he now ran like a useful two years old.

Ballyjamesduff followed up his Curragh score by another easy win in the Hoilday Plate. Though lying behind in the early stages, he was always going easily, and when E. Quirke sent him out in pursuit of Golden Lancer and No Bird half a mile from the end he made up the ground gradually and ultimately passed the post with a good bit in hand.

MOUNTAIN BREEZE AGAIN

There was a stirring finish for the Dublin Plate, in which the penalised Mountain Breeze, Corrib Lady and Nanki Poo were the horses concerned. Cabinteely, who had been making the earlier running, was headed by Corrib Lady at the entrance to the straight, and just as she looked like coming home an easy winner first Nanki Poo and then Mountain Breeze tackled her, and the last-named with a well-timed effort just shot up on the post to gain her fourth win out of her five last races.

MR. MCKEEVER'S DOUBLE

Mr. J. J. Parkinson's Vencedor filly, Yukon Gold, did backers a good turn by an easy win in the August Plate, and Bard of Meath, ridden by his owner, Mr. C. H. Nicholson, by winning the Corinthian Plate completed a double event for Mr. T. R. McKeever as trainer, his previous success being gained by the aid of Mountain Breeze. Details :—

NEWMARKET NOTES

Selections For Three Meetings This Afternoon

NEWMARKET, Monday.

LITTLE work of interest came under observation on the various training grounds to-day. Beatty's Mansur covered six furlongs sharply with Gracious Gift, and it looks as though Mansur is fit for his engagement in the August Handicap at Birmingham to-morrow. There is no doubt that Mr. Macomber's grey is among the best handicappers in the country at present. He won the Hare Park Handicap and the Dullingham Stakes at our July fixtures with great ease, and there is no telling how good he is. He has the welter impost of 10st. to carry to-morrow, but I do not care to recommend one to beat him.

Plantagra went well enough in a good pace five furlongs spin with Attraction and Gallionelle filly to suggest that she will earn winning brackets in the near future.

Digby sent Conway, Morar and Decorator one mile and a half at half-speed. Woburn Park, with Struggs Hill, covered five furlongs sharply. Papyrette, who will be included in the field for the August Handicap at Bramford Bridge to-morrow, was similarly employed.

Frank Butters was on the Bury side, and, after giving Saraikala, Sari and Sultaneh a nice pace spin over five furlongs, he turned his attention to the St. Leger candidate, Mahmoud, who was sent seven furlongs at about half-speed with Bala Hissar, Barra Sahib, Prince Aly and Bahuddin. The Derby winner is looking a perfect picture of health. Theft, Felassa, Sirdar Azam, Lucky Patch, Baber Shah, Maiden Fair, El Shaa and Fitenoor were similarly employed. In my opinion, Fitenoor should have won outright at our last meeting instead of dead-heating with Satanic. He should give Prince Aly Khan a winning ride in the Berwick Welter Handicap at Brighton on Wednesday.

We shall have only a few runners at Brighton to-morrow.

SPRIGHTLY STAR,

our only runner in the Channel Selling Plate, should at least be capable of gaining a place. There is not a more consistent performer than Mr. M. Benson's

BLOATER.

He is handicapped up to the hilt of his best form in the Brighton Stakes, but he has my vote. Red Horizon may be dangerous.

ETHIOPIAN (nap)

has been going exceptionally well in his recent gallops, and should win the Montpelier Maiden Plate.

DIOSMA

is given a slight preference over Coffee Cooler in the Apprentices' Plate.

My fancies at the other meetings are:—

Birmingham—2.0, Future Record, if absent Chanel; 2.30, Scanderoon; 3.30, Mansur; 4.0, Mrs. Atkins; 4.30, Astyanax.

Ripon—2.0, Fairy Dene; 2.30, Jay Jay; 3.0, Freia filly (next best); 3.30, Firestone; 4.0, Portpatrick; 4.25, Enstone.

POLO

COCHRANE CUP FINAL

SPLENDID DISPLAY BY CAPTAIN FINDLAY

GREYLINGS...... 6 QUIDNUNCS...... 1

The Greylings won the Stanley Cochrane Cup, defeating Quidnuncs in a four-chukkar match at the Nine Acres, Phœnix Park, yesterday, by six goals to one.

The winners were splendidly served at No. 3, where Captain Findlay gave a first-class display of accurate and long hitting, and initiated many attacks. Mr. J. V. Nutting (No. 2) backed up excellently, and Major Gaisford St. Lawrence played a strong game at back, whilst Mr. E. C. Nutting, at No. 1, got through a lot of sound work.

The Quidnuncs never really got going, and were often beaten on the turn. They should, however, have had more than one goal on the chances offered, but generally were out of luck.

The Quidnuncs' goal had many narrow escapes in the first chukkar, early in which Mr. A. Moore saved splendidly when a shot by Mr. J. V. Nutting looked a scorer. At the other end Major St. Lawrence saved a certain score when Mr. Martin was going through. Twice Captain Findlay was only barely wide with good shots, and the chukkar ended without a score.

Mr. J. Nutting signalised the start of the second chukkar with a goal to give Greylings the lead, and he was unlucky with another fine shot immediately afterwards, Mr. Martin just getting to the ball in time. Before the bell, however, Mr. Nutting hit his second goal to give Greylings a 2-0 lead.

Continuing to have the better of play in the third period, Greylings, who on handicap were three goals a better side, went further ahead with a great goal by Captain Findlay. Mr. D. Moore reduced the deficit after good work by Mr. A. Moore, but Major St. Lawrence hit through another for Greylings. In the final chukkar Mr. E. Nutting and Captain Findlay each scored to bring the winners total to six.

Greylings—Mr. E. C. Nutting, Mr. J. V. Nutting, Captain R. Findlay, Major Gaisford St. Lawrence (back).

Quidnuncs—Mr. D. Moore, Mr. H. Tyrrell, Mr. J. L. Martin, Mr. A. L. Moore.

Umpire—Major T. W. Kirkwood.

THE HURLINGHAM TEAM SCORES FREELY

It was practically all one-way scoring in the four-chukkar practice match for the Hurlingham side, who scored ten goals against one by the A.I.P.C. four.

The changes in the Hurlingham team—Colonel Aizlewood, who on Saturday played No. 3, and Mr. Cowan (2) changing places—made for improvement, and the visitors were always on top.

Mr. Cowan (2), Colonel Aizlewood and Major Arnott scored for Hurlingham in the first period, in which Mr. Johnson scored the home side's only goal. In the second chukkar Major Arnott and Mr. Moulton-Barrett brought the visitors' total to six, and in the third Mr. Cowan, Colonel Aizlewood (2) and Mr. Moulton-Barrett completed the scoring.

Hurlingham—Mr. R. A. Moulton-Barrett, Lieut.-Colonel A. Aizlewood, Mr. H. W. L. Cowan, Major T. J. Arnott.

A.I.P.C.—Major T. W. Kirkwood, Mr. J. Johnson, Major J. O'Rorke, Mr. J. L. Martin.

Umpire—Mr. R. H. Usher.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

British Runners too Slow in the Steeplechase

J. Sheffield, Britain's sole representative in the 400 metres hurdles event, which R. M. N. Tisdall won for Ireland at Los Angeles in 1932, failed to qualify for the final, although favoured by the draw. Sheffield got away nicely, and took the first hurdle in fine style, but knocked the third and penultimate hurdles. This put him out of his stride, and he faltered on the run-in. This heat was won by Glenn Hardin, the American world record holder.

The South African pair—T. Becker and R. M. Rushton—were expected to do well in this event, but Becker did not run, and Rushton failed to qualify.

THE STEEPLECHASE

By the time the 3,000 metres steeplechase started it had begun to rain. Evenson took the first hurdle excellently, and went ahead in his heat, but passing the stand the second time round he dropped back to sixth place. He made up ground at the water-jump, but once more lost ground. He did not seem to be running with his usual zest, and at the third water-jump he was baulked, which did not improve matters.

At the half-distance he made a fine effort. Though seventh, he was well up with the leaders. He stumbled at the fourth water-jump, but continued to make ground strongly and went into fourth place. At the fifth water-jump he gave way to Dompert, who took the lead. The American, Dawson, made a great effort, and on the last bend caught Evenson, who, seeing his chance of qualifying hopeless, eased up and finished fifty yards behind the winner, Dompert.

GINTY'S WEAKNESS

James Ginty, the second British runner in the steeplechase, spoiled his chances of qualifying by negotiating the water-jumps badly. He was always with the leaders, but every time he took the water-jump he dropped behind. With three laps to go he was lying fifth to Rerolle, the French champion, who was in the lead.

Ginty struggled gamely to run into the fourth qualifying place, but he continued to spoil good hurdling and sprinting by bad water-jumping. Ginty finished with a fine burst and passed the Japanese, Tanaka, but another poor water-jump prevented him beating Larsson, of Sweden, for fourth place.

Of the British women, Eileen Hiscock won her first round heat comfortably by five feet, after a strenuous race with the American, Miss Rogers. Miss Burke, however, was up against stiffer opposition in the German champion, Fraulein Dollinger, who beat her by about three yards. In the fifth heat Miss Brown got away badly, and never looked to have a winning chance.

In the semi-finals, Miss Hiscock, after getting away well, was unable to maintain the hot pace set up by Miss Helen Stephens, the American, who had broken the world record in the first round, and Fraulein Kraus (Germany). She finished fifth. Miss Stephens's time of 11.5 secs. was only 1-10 sec. slower than her world record.

Miss Burke also got away to a good start in her semi-final, and she held the lead at twenty-five yards, where Fraulein Dollinger and Stella Walsh, the Polish-American got into their stride. Miss Burke was unable to keep up the pace, and began to fall back. She finished fifth of six.

Great Britain gained a narrow win by 13 goals to 11 over Mexico in the eliminating matches in the polo championship. The match was fought out at a keen pace before 20,000 spectators, on turf which was still damp from early rain.

Captain B. J. Fowler, Britain's No. 1, who scored seven goals; Captain H. P. Guinness, the only Westchester Cup player in the side, who scored two; Captain W. R. N. Hinde (2) and Captain D. Dawnay (2), all played brilliant polo on the British side in a hard-fought match.

Among the visitors at the Abercorn Hotel, Newtownstewart, the past week were the Earl of Lytton, P.C., G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E., Knebworth House, Stevenage, Herts; his son, Lord Knebworth, and the Earl of Erne, Crom Castle, Newtownbutler. The Mourne was rather disturbed by spate water and not in its usual July trim. One day (Wednesday) the Earl of Lytton killed three salmon, Lord Knebworth killed a fish or two, and Lord Erne had five. Colonel Turnbull, although not fishing as much as usual, killed several fish; Mr. W. Carson, Carralea, had six salmon, and Dr. Bryce Smith had several.

HANDBALL

P. BELL AND P. GILMARTIN IN HARD-BALL FINAL

Two matches in the All-Ireland Championships were played at the Terenure Court yesterday.

In the Senior Hard-ball Singles semi-final P. Bell (Meath), although not playing up to the form that won him the title and Dr. Harty Cup in 1933, defeated E. Gorman (Tipperary) by four games to two—21-8, 15-21, 21-14, 21-11, 10-21, 21-10. From the opening game Bell had his opponent on the defensive by his superior court-craft. He upset Gorman's anticipation by varying his strokes, and never playing in the obvious direction.

In the Junior Hard-ball Doubles Kilkenny (P. Molloy and T. Jordon) defeated Meath (Andy Doyle and T. Tormay) by 20-21, 21-20, 6-21, 21-0, 21-20. It was a fast, well-contested rubber, with many keen exchanges, good tossing and brilliant finishing strokes.

At the Croke Park Court P. Perry (Roscommon), holder of the Senior Soft-ball Singles, received a walk-over owing to the non-appearance of the Cavan representative.

P. J. Gilmartin (Kilkenny) is the other finalist for the hard-ball title. At Talbot's Inch, Kilkenny, yesterday, he defeated Frank O'Reilly (Dublin)—21-16, 20-21, 15-21, 21-0, 21-7, 21-10. In the junior hard-ball singles P. Murray (Offaly) beat G. Ryan (Kildare)—21-15, 19-21, 21-18, 21-1.

BOXING

K.-O. VICTORY FOR McAVOY

JOHNNY KING DEFEATS BURNS ON POINTS

Jock McAvoy (Rochdale), British middle-weight champion, knocked out Bob Simpkins (Bridlington), in the seventh of a ten rounds contest at Blackpool yesterday, before a crowd of 10,000. McAvoy was on top from the start, and punished Simpkins heavily at close quarters. He occasionally landed with lefts to the chin, but there was little weight behind these blows. Simpkins showed no signs of distress up to the half-way stage, and appeared quite fresh when he came out for the seventh round.

The end came quite suddenly. McAvoy, in the centre of the ring, leapt forward and drove in a right upper-cut. The Bridlington man reeled back and, seizing his opportunity, the champion dashed in and forced his opponent round the ring, landing many lefts and rights to the jaw. The Yorkshireman eventually went down from another right upper-cut. He was on one knee and leaning against the ropes when counted out. For a moment there was some dissent among the crowd, many of whom thought that Simpkins had beaten the count. McAvoy called out "let him carry on if he wants to," but the referee's decision stood.

In the same ring Johnny King (Manchester), the British bantam-weight champion outpointed Boyo Burns (Bolton), over ten rounds. The defences of both men were good, and precluded any possibility of a knock-out in the early stages. King improved from the sixth round, and in the ninth had Burns down for a count of six with a short punch to the chin after he had weakened his man with a wild left swing which landed luckily as they came out of a clinch. Burns, well behind on points, made a desperate closing effort, but King held his own, and won well.

GAINS BEATS STAAL

Larry Gains (Leicester) beat Harry Staal, the Dutch heavy-weight champion, on points over ten rounds at Cheltenham last night. There was brisk boxing in the second round, and afterwards Gains boxed coolly. A right put him off his balance in the third round, and he fell between the ropes. Staal forced the pace in the seventh stage, and for a time the exchanges were good, although Staal was inclined to mistime his punches. Hard fighting was seen in the ninth and tenth rounds, of which Gains had the better, winning fairly easily.

YACHTING

HOLIDAY REGATTA AT WICKLOW

HIGH WIND HAMPERS THE FIXTURE

There was a huge crowd at Wicklow yesterday for the annual bank holiday regatta, and, despite the high wind and a shower or two, the day passed off splendidly. Considering the hard blow on the day before, the gathering of yachts at the port was most satisfactory, the only class that was not well represented being the 17-Footers, only two making the passage down. On the other hand, the cruisers were many, and there were four 21-Footers.

It was a splendid sailing day in one sense, but not in another, there being far too much wind at the beginning of the regatta. It was from nor'-west, and puffy at times, but it lulled considerably in the later afternoon. Being offshore, it did not distress the spectators, but a little less of it over the water would have been welcome.

SAILING EVENTS

Six started in the over 5 tons handicap, Espanola arriving just in time to take part in the race. It was her wind and weather, a reach most of the time, with a short beat at the close of each round, and, taking the lead early, she held it to the finish, to lose first prize at the end, however, by fifteen secs. to Mavis. Nepenthe started with topsail, and the sail was too much for her. The starters in the 5 and under handicap were not so fortunate, five yachts competing, and all went well till the end of the second round, when the sea mark capsized shortly after Mercia, the leader, had rounded it. She continued on, while the others (Alethea and Tern) came in to report the disappearance of the mark, and then abandoned the race. Thus it happened that Mercia finished alone.

Oola won the 21-Footers in fine style from Finola, but the latter went much better this time than of late. The other two were out of luck, Innisfallen bursting a runner and Estelle fouling a mark. The 17-Footers' race was a match between Leila and Eileen, and the former finished alone. Details:—

ROWING RACES.

These were mostly of local interest, but the open skiff race was different, two boats (May Queen and St. Michael), from Dun Laoghaire, and one (Jealous of Me), from Bullock, taking on the Guiding Star, of Wicklow. It produced a splendid race over a course of two miles, and the Wicklow boat won by a length from May Queen, with St. Michael third.

ENDEAVOUR II. LOSES HER MAST

Disastrous results marked the opening of Cowes Week yesterday, when the Royal London Yacht Club held their usual first class regatta. Mrs. Sopwith's new Endeavour II. was the principal sufferer, as, when leading the big class near the Horse Sand Fort during the first round, she carried away a backstay, which caused the steel mast to go overboard. Fortunately, no fatal results attended the accident, and the disabled yacht was towed to Ryde. The remaining three big cutters gave up.

Four other competitors lost their masts, Minstrel and Oenone, two handicap vessels, and two of the Q class, Fintra and Zenith.

There was a fresh west to north-westerly breeze, which caused the competitors to sail under shortened canvas, but there did not appear to be too much for the larger vessels, although occasional squalls caused concern. Four of the twelve metre class sailed a full course of twenty-six miles. Mrs. Hugh Goodson's Flica led at the start, and was still ahead at the half distance, but Mrs. A. C. Connell's Westra and Mr. C. R. Airey's Evaine both passed the leader before the finish.

The finishing times were:—Westra (winner), 2h. 42m. 36s.; Evaine (second), 2h. 43m. 26s.; Flica (third), 2h. 43m. 32s.

Ten yachts competed over thirty-two miles in the big handicap, the corrected times being:—Cerigo (winner), 3h. 32m. 39s.; Kismet III. (second), 3h. 38m. 28s.; Zephyr (third), 3h. 39m. 12s.

Guinness

Commenting on the full report of Arthur Guinness for the year, the Financial News, referring to the balance sheet, says:—The most significant items are an advance of rather more than £1,400,000 in premises, plant, machinery, etc., which brings the total value of these assets to nearly £7,112,000, a fall of more than £500,000 in amounts owing by subsidiary undertakings from £616,226 to £107,976, and a sharp contraction in cash resources from £2,215,413 to £1,082,268. First-class investment holdings have, however, risen by nearly £500,000. Surplus liquid assets are well in excess of £5,800,000, and include an investment total of £4,931,634. The latter figure includes an undisclosed reserve owing to the customary under-valuation on market prices. This consideration also applies to creditors, which include unspecified provisions for taxation and contingencies. The general strength of the Guinness undertaking needs no stressing, and the accounts in general provide the usual indications of confident activity. The Earl of Iveagh's speech next Saturday will be awaited with more than usual interest by the large body of shareholders.

Tanker's Scheme Ineffective

The proposed new scheme of arrangement for Tankers, Ltd., which was submitted to meetings of the company last Tuesday, will not become effective, as the requisite three-fourth majority was not obtained in respect of the funding certificates.

Rand Gold Profits for July

The following are additional returns:—Brakpan, £106,522 (£104,231); Daggafontein, £127,068 (£125,204); Springs, £168,111 (£166,969); West Springs, £33,313 (£33,067); Transvaal, £6,756 (£6,531). (The revenue from gold is based on a price of £6 18s. per fine oz.)

Conditions in Canada

The Monthly Commercial Letter, issued by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, states that construction, the heavy industries, and lumbering have been active, but newsprint, the automotive trades and textiles are seasonally slack. Tourist trade began early, and promises to be the best since 1930. Exports from January to May were substantially higher than a year ago, and better distributed. A recurrence of drought on the southern prairies has largely offset the improvement in the Western crop that occurred early in June. Central and Eastern crops are expected to be lighter, but of better quality than a year ago.

New Companies

The following companies have been registered with offices in the Free State (the nominal capital of each is given):—Dublin Cinemas, Ltd., £20,000; Killarney Race Company, Ltd., £3,000; Windsor Holdings Company, Ltd., £4,000. The following have also been registered:—Montagu Arms Hotel (Portstewart), Ltd., £5,000; Portmore Farms, Ltd., £100.

United States Treasury's Monthly Statement

The Secretary of the United States Treasury in his usual monthly report gives the following particulars:—Ordinary receipts 293,887,000 dollars (529,215,000 dollars), ordinary disbursements 335,206,000 dollars (2,091,589,000 dollars), net balance in general fund 2,230,468,000 dollars (2,631,510,000 dollars), total cash assets in general fund 13,917,665,000 dollars (14,760,833,000 dollars), debt decrease 334,748,0000 dollars (2,142,100,000 dollars increase), emergency expenditures not included in the above, 81,902,000 dollars (255,515,000 dollars). The amounts in parentheses are the relevant figures issued in the report of July 2nd.

THE GATE'S NEW SEASON

A PROMISING OPENING

"Master of the Revels," by Don Marquis.

King Henry VIII .... Hilton Edwards
Cardinal Wolsey .... Micheal MacLiammoir
Catherine of Aragon .... Coralie Carmichael
Anne Boleyn .... Meriel Moore

It was good, after all these months, to see Hilton Edwards and Micheal MacLiammoir on the stage at the Gate Theatre again, and the cheers that greeted them at the final curtain last night had a personal ring. Their opening play shows that business, again, is as usual; they have not deserted their old standards of production, setting and lighting, and have kept to the Gate's tradition of enterprise in the choice of plays. "Master of the Revels," indeed, was shown in Europe for the first time last night, and the comedy has excited so much notice in New York that many Dublin people will be glad of the chance to see it.

The play is the work of Don Marquis (who will be known already to some as the creator of Archy, that inimitable cockroach), and to give a rough idea of its scope and style one can compare it with "The Private Life of Henry VIII.," a film which was seen in Dublin some time ago. It proceeds, in the same rather episodic manner, from one marriage to another until Katherine Parr is reached; it presents Henry as much the same kind of genial scoundrel, and the speech of the characters is given the anachronistic, "modern" touch that was so amusing on the film.

Indeed, the dialogue of "Master of the Revels" is at the same time a strength and a weakness. The play is full of delightful lines and unexpected turns of phrase, but the author, blessed over-much with a sense of humour, never seemed able to make up his mind whether he was writing a skit on the Tudors or a fairly serious study of Henry's reign. The audience is continually being switched from one mood to the other, and the effect is rather bewildering.

Another weakness—and a curious weakness in an American play—is that the "Master of the Revels" does not seem to lead anywhere. It starts promisingly on the note of farce, with Henry's discovery that he would like to be rid of his first wife, and his decision to take the appropriate steps. The author gives an entertaining version of Henry's dealings with the Pope, and, in addition, manages to convey his own idea of the man's character very vividly. One scene, in particular, is a miracle of compression and explanation—Henry, in his dealings with the group of discontented peasants, exposes not only all the brutality and humour of his own nature, but also the qualities which made him simultaneously a treacherous man, a religious hypocrite, and a great king. From that point onwards, however, the author can think of nothing better to do than to give a condensed version of the rest of Henry's life—the betrayal and death of the men who helped him to power, and the monarch's rather conventional progress from one amour to another. The play continues to be amusing, but it has lost its point.

The strength of this comedy lies in its character-sketches. Henry himself, with his almost boyish outlook on life, gets most of the attention, and the part was acted finely by Hilton Edwards. There can be no doubt, however, that Micheal MacLiammoir's playing of Wolsey was the real "high spot" of the evening. We are not accustomed to see him in this kind of part, which denies him all his usual vivacity and emotion, and substitutes a character of ice for one of fire. Yet his picture of the Cardinal, a gloomy, scheming figure with the knowledge of his fate always hanging over him, was amazingly good. One would have said that it was not in Mr. MacLiammoir's nature to take such a part, but he made it the most convincing part in the play.

Among the other members of the cast the honours were very evenly divided. H. R. Alleyne as Thomas Cromwell, Art O'Murnaghan as a dignified and saintly Sir Thomas More, Coralie Carmichael (especially in a splendid piece of vituperation in the first act), Meriel Moore, Mairin Hayes and Sheila May, all had their chance at one point or another, and all took it.

THEATRE ROYAL

A new technique has grown up on the variety stage since the introduction of the microphone and its attendant amplifiers. The Mills Brothers may be described, in a general sort of way, as products of this technique. Without the microphone all their vocal skill and artistry would be lost. They have fine "microphone voices," they are delightful to listen to, and they achieve some remarkably musical (as distinct from vocal) sounds. The fat one, for example, can produce a sound very like that of a "hot" trumpeter. Of the numbers they sang last night, the best was probably "Shoe Shine Boy." It is admirably suited to their voices and technique; but "Dina," "Sleepy Head" and "Tiger Rag" are also worth mentioning. For the benefit of future audiences it might be mentioned that one of the four Mills brothers died some time ago; his place has been taken by their father, who stands on the right of the audience. They use a special type of microphone, which they brought to Dublin themselves.

Taking the "acts" in the order which they deserve, Jimmy Campbell is a good second. With his band, he gives a fine presentation, reminiscent of Irish sporting life and, of course, the Horse Show. Renée Flynn and Robert Irwin are his two vocalists, and the life introduced into the show by the "military jumping" and the "race" gives zest to the whole performance.

Frank Boston presents an amusing and clever juggling act; Harry Marconi, who achieved fame on the Continent and in England, is a fine piano-accordion player, while the Lucerne Skaters have a graceful roller skating act, with a very graceful piece of work in which the male member of the team becomes a human "top." Alban Chambers plays some Irish airs to welcome Dublin's visitors.

ABBEY THEATRE

The choice of Lennox Robinson's "Far Off Hills" this week is an excellent one; for the large audience, which included a number of cross-Channel visitors for the Horse Show, thoroughly enjoyed it. Ria Mooney took the part of Marian, and gave a delightful interpretation of the girl who discovered in time that she did not have a vocation for religion; while Maureen Delany, as Susie Tynan, gave just that presentation which one must expect from her. P. J. Carolan took the part of Patrick Clancy, the blind father, and Aideen O'Connor and Frolie Mulhern the parts of his daughters. The latter are accomplished actresses, and deserved the reception which they received. Then there was Michael J. Dolan as Dick Delaney, and Eric Gorman, who filled Barry Fitzgerald's old place, as the other village idler. The production, which is in charge of Mr. Dolan, was well done.

The play will be given also on Wednesday and Friday.

PEACOCK THEATRE

"The Garden of Eden," the first of a series of plays by James Bourke, is being presented this week. Though rather juvenile, the play shows certain promise of dramatic power on the part of the author, and if in future he adopts a theme less melodramatic and nearer to life as it is, he might go far. True, the plot is original; for who ever before heard of a man robbing the mother of his fiancée to secure enough money for the marriage. The dialogue is lucid and intelligent, and it flowed with an ease that was pleasing to hear. Opening in a Dublin flat, the action then moves to "Eden," the country seat of the Socks family, near Ballyduff, where the remainder of the comedy is developed. Of the twelve players taking part the best were undoubtedly Esmé Biddle as Mrs. Socks, who could hardly have been excelled, and M. P. O'Flanagan, as the policeman.

The author of the play had charge of the production and the stage settings, and deserves congratulation for the excellent way in which he arranged them.

OLYMPIA THEATRE

Jimmy O'Dea and Harry O'Donovan entertained crowded houses last night in their revue, "Blarney." This is a typical O'Dea-O'Donovan production, in which Jimmy O'Dea's epigrams are amusing, while his comedy is what might be expected from the type of person who is being portrayed. There is abundant music in the revue, as well as good dancing, and the seventeen scenes pass smoothly in quick movement. The best of the musical parts are in the song scenas with J. C. Browner, Marjorie Macklin, Peggy Stamula and Charles Ellis in principal parts, and all these are well done. Tom Dunne, Noel Purcell, Walter Aubrey and Jimmy Wildman are other good artistes. Two dancing troupes gave well-timed and graceful exhibitions under the direction of Charles Ellis.

TWO DROWNED AT BOURNEMOUTH

Mr. E. Roberts, aged 38, of Osborne road, Laindon, Essex, who was in Bournemouth on holiday, was bathing from a private tent near Boscombe Pier yesterday when he collapsed.

Mr. I. J Jones, of Glamorgan, another visitor, who was bathing close by, brought Roberts ashore, but he was dead.

An eight years old boy named Frederick Mills, who was staying with his parents in a caravan near Bournemouth, on the banks of the River Stour, was drowned yesterday. The boy had apparently climbed into a boat which was moored to the shore and fell over into the water.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

GAINS TOUCH FOUR DOLLARS

Reuter's Telegrams.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Wall street is now closely following the events in Spain for possible repercussions elsewhere. The turnover was considerably smaller to-day, amounting to only 1,000,000 shares. The opening was steady.

The market turned quiet in the afternoon as scattered profit-taking developed. The major part of the list, however, moved fractionally higher, with Aviation and Chemical shares well supported.

The market closed irregular, with gains ranging to a point shown by the Aviation group, while J. I. Case, American Telephone, Columbian Carbon, and Wright Aeronautical advanced 2 to 4 points. On the losing side, the Mining issues, Bethlehem Steel, Crucible Steel, Delaware and Hudson, Cerro de Pasco Copper, and Continental Can lost fractions to 1, while General Cigar, Chrysler, and International Business Machine were down 2 to 3 points.

Sterling Exchange opened 1/32c. up at 5.01⅝, but declined to 5.01 17/32 during the morning. The rate improved to 5.01 19/32 in the afternoon, and finally closed 1/32c. higher—compared with the previous close—at 5.01 21/32. Silver was unchanged at 44¾c.

GUARDSMAN AND HIS BRIDE

HOME OFFICE HOLDS UP WEDDING

A pretty German girl sat in the waiting room at Caxton Hall Registry Office, London, yesterday, while her Guardsman lover raced to the Home Office in an attempt to get official permission for their marriage.

The girl, Fraulein Gertud Jakob, and Private Thomas Henry John, a twenty-three years old Welsh Guardsman stationed at Wellington Barracks, were to have been married at the registry office yesterday, but the Home Office stepped in and held up the wedding.

Last week Fraulein Jakob was charged with remaining in England without permission, and Private John, who paid the fine of £3 imposed on her, told the Court that they were going to be married. No recommendation for deportation was made, and subsequently the Home Office gave the girl permission to stay in this country for six more days. It was believed that she would then be married and, as Mrs. John, would have ceased to be an alien Yesterday when Fraulein Jakob and the Guardsman arrived at Caxton Hall with their best man and bridesmaids their hopes were dashed. Although their application and papers connected with the wedding were in order, the registrar stated that the ceremony could not take place.

Fraulein Jakob was almost in tears when she was told about this, and Private John raced to the Home Office to try and get the necessary sanction for the ceremony. It was no use, and some time later the Guardsman and his bride, terribly disappointed, went with their attendants to a cafe at Marble Arch.

At Caxton Hall it was stated that instructions had been received from the Home Office not to proceed with the wedding pending further inquiries.

TOLL OBJECTOR CAUSES HOLD-UP

SHILLING WOULD HAVE SAVED A CRASH

A young motorist's refusal to pay a shilling toll at Sandwich Toll Bridge, Kent, last night brought two miles of cars to a standstill on the main Ramsgate-Sandwich road. Holiday traffic was held up for over an hour. The town of Sandwich resembled a huge car park so congested were its streets. Traffic had to be diverted through the village of Ash.

The army of waiting motorists became so exasperated by their inability to move that they set up a continual blare from their hooters.

In the principal car concerned were four young people on holiday at Margate who set out for a drive to Sandwich. When they reached the toll bridge which spans the River Sour the driver refused to pay the toll, telling the collector that he would rather turn back and enter Sandwich by some other way. He began to reverse, and suddenly the car shot backwards, mounted the pavement, knocked down the bridge railings and came to rest with its rear wheels overhanging the parapet. There the car remained for over an hour.

Its occupants were uninjured, but, owing to the car's position, were extricated with difficulty.

THE KING AND MUSSOLINI

It is stated that no arrangements have been made for the King to visit either Queen Marie of Jugoslavia and her twelve-year-old son, King Peter, or Signor Mussolini during his holiday. It is highly unlikely that any other such visits will be made. The date of the King's embarkation has not been settled.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

Fatal Road Accident.—The death occurred in Armagh County Infirmary yesterday of Philip McIntee, Boyd's row, Armagh, as a result of injuries received when knocked down by a motor cycle on Friday last. The deceased man, it is stated, was wheeling a pedal cycle when a motor cycle collided with him, inflicting severe head injuries.

Electric Barrage for Eels.—The erection of the electrical plant at Toome, on the Bann, for the purpose of putting up a barrage against eels and diverting them while on their run to the sea from Lough Neagh into specially devised traps, is well forward. The cables are laid, but power is still wanting, as Toome village, close to the Bann, has not yet consented to take electric light or power. It is hoped that by electrifying the waters of the Bann at certain points eels will be diverted from their ordinary course into traps arranged for them.

"Not Banned."—"The schoolboys can tell you the names of the wives of Henry VIII., but they don't know anything about the Battle of Benburb," said Mr. M. H. Grogan at a meeting of County Roscommon Vocational Education Committee, joining with Mr. A. Keaveney, N.T., in a protest on being informed that the Committee's resolution asking for permission to include the teaching of Irish history in their programme, had been ignored by the Department. The chief executive officer said that Irish history was not banned, but time could not be devoted to it as a separate subject.

Fruit-Growing in Meath.—At the Meath Agricultural Committee Mr. Tallon said that he had received complaints from fruit-growers in the Duleek area that certain jam manufacturers had refused to purchase the raspberry crop notwithstanding an greement with the federation of jam manufacturers, with the result that £400 or £500 worth of fruit was lost. It was useless for the committee developing the fruit-growing industry if this was allowed to go on. There was a considerable amount of pulp being imported, and, with the jam manufacturers growing their own fruit, the growers were getting no market for their crops. A resolution was passed asking the Department of Agriculture to restrict imported pulp.

"FLYING FLEA" RACE

WON BY FRENCHMAN

The first international trophy race for "flying fleas" at Ramsgate Airport yesterday resolved itself into a contest between four French and three English pilots. The trophy was won on handicap by M. E. Bret, of Cannes, France, who, with a time allowance of 4 mins. 24 secs., covered the 30-mile course at an average speed of 56¾ m.p.h.

Mr. S. V. Appleby, of Heston, put up the fastest speed—59½ m.p.h.—and secured second prize on handicap.

Third prize was won by M. R. Robineau, of France, who, with a time allowance of 6 mins. 59 secs., averaged 50 m.p.h.

In spite of a strong westerly wind, none of the seven machines came to grief; but Flying Officer A. E. Clouston, Royal Air Force, returned to the airport after the first lap owing to a burst oil pipe.

PREMIER WINS GOLD MEDAL

AND FIFTEEN SHILLINGS AT FLOWER SHOW

The Prime Minister won a gold medal and a prize of fifteen shillings at the Astley Flower Show, held in the grounds of his Worcestershire home, Astley Hall, yesterday.

For the third successive year Mr. Baldwin won the society's gold medal for his collection of hot-house plants and the money prize was for the best collection of flowers, fruit and vegetables in an open class for amateur and professional gardeners.

Mr. Windham Baldwin, who opened the show, said that his father was at Chequers having a rest. "You might think that he would have been here," he told the villagers, "but if you knew the burden of work on him during the last few months you would understand that the only way he can get back his health and strength is by having a complete rest."

WINTER-GROWN CROPS

We have often a disinclination to do anything except harvest work during the few days or weeks that come between the harvest and the threshing, and yet in many ways this is a particularly valuable time. It is virtually the last period of the year when we could do a little drainage road work and entrance making, and if we only realised the advantages of early ploughing we would try and get the stubble turned immediately the crop is in stack. With the change in our tillage we should also make a certainty of sowing a catch crop and of preparing for sowing all the winter corn that we can. By the way, a few people nowadays sow barley as a winter crop, and yet in some areas winter-sown barley gives a much better sample than spring-sown.

MR. BALDWIN'S LEADERSHIP

"AN UNMITIGATED DISASTER"

THE DANGER OF PACIFISM

SIR WALTER LAYTON, addressing the Liberal Summer School at Oxford yesterday, said: "Mr. Baldwin, though never Foreign Minister, has stamped his characteristics on the whole of British diplomacy.

"The most characteristic thing he has said was after the Hoare-Laval dispute, when he declared that he was never going to allow his Foreign Ministers to go abroad at all.

"Mr. Baldwin himself never goes abroad, except to Aix.

"I admire Mr. Baldwin's qualities. I think his intentions are good. I think he is a cultured person, and that on ceremonial occasions the speeches he makes are admirable, and that he does express frequently the sentiment of the people.

"DISASTROUS"

"But I think that in times when leadership is called for, when the world is at the cross-roads, the fact that Mr. Baldwin has been in charge in this country has been an unmitigated disaster."

As the result of the Abyssinian crisis, British prestige had sunk lower than he had ever known it before.

"The whole British idea is discredited, and people are turning away from freedom and democratic ideals towards dictatorship."

THE EMPIRE

Sir Walter said if Great Britain were to adopt the pacifist position, it was crystal clear that in the present temper of the nations they should, without any doubt, lose the whole of the British Empire.

"We should be an over-populated island with a falling standard of living."

FASCISM IN A BLACK COAT

Mr. Dingle Foot, M.P., said that he did not suppose in their lifetime they were ever likely to see in Great Britain a Fascist coup d'etat, because they did these things in their own peculiar and insular way.

"We do not resort to barricades and a reign of terror. Instead, we content ourselves with the passing of a Reform bill, but the effect is not so very different in the end. We may very well find in a few years that despotism has crept in under the cloak of a representative Government. Fascism is far more likely to come in this country in a black coat, than in a black shirt."

DEATH OF LADY ALINGTON

A GOD-DAUGHTER OF QUEEN MARY

Lady Alington, wife of Lord Alington, and eldest daughter of the Earl of Shaftesbury, died in London on Sunday, following an operation for acute appendicitis. She was 33.

Lady Alington, a god-daughter of Queen Mary, married Lord Alington in 1928. They have one daughter.

Her wedding, which took place at St. Margaret's, Westminster, was the principal event of the autumn season. Among the many wedding presents she received was a diamond pendant, with the Royal cypher, from King George and Queen Mary.

Lady Alington was described as the best swimmer in Mayfair. She scored many of her successes at the Bath Club. As recently as 1934 she won the Women's Championship of the club after a series of tests. Tall and very strongly built, she scarcely had a day's illness until she was operated on for appendicitis.

Lady Alington left Belfast as a schoolgirl on the first Armistice Day, 1918. She returned to the city on Armistice Day, 1933, on both occasions accompanied by her father. Her last visit was in connection with her favourite sport.

She was instructress in swimming for about five years in an East End London girls' swimming club. Later on her time was too much occupied examining and with other aspects of the sport to allow time for teaching.

SCOUTS FROM TWO CONTINENTS

Ten thousand Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and Wolf Cubs from two continents paraded at Plymouth yesterday before the Chief Scout, Lord Baden-Powell.

The flags of a dozen nations fluttered in the sunshine during the march past of boys from one hundred and fifty towns in Great Britain, from the Irish Free State, the Channel Islands, Armenia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Czecho-Slovakia, Denmark, France, Holland, Hungary, Norway, Sweden and the United States.

For half an hour Lord Baden-Powell stood at the salute. Then he watched displays of scouting activities, bridge-building, fire-fighting, tent-pitching and physical culture.

The Chief Scout, replying to a welcome by the Lord Mayor of Plymouth (Mr. H. M. Medland), said that there were dangerous times ahead.

"When we look around and see in neighbouring countries the terrible times they are having, largely through want of character and goodwill in the people, it is up to us to make the oncoming generation citizens of real courage and trustworthiness who will not be carried away by agitators, but will stick to their duty to King and country."

Earlier in the day the Chief Scout paid a surprise visit to the camp at Mount Edgcumbe, where four thousand scouts are under canvas for a week.

While five years old Francis Beck son of William Beck, motor-trimmer, of Eastfield road, Dumfries, was playing near his home yesterday, a sweet became lodged in his throat, and he died in Dumfries Infirmary, where he was taken when it was seen that he was in danger of choking.

THE ELEVENTH OLYMPIAD

OPENING CEREMONY AT BERLIN

WITNESSED BY 100,000 PEOPLE

From Our Special Correspondent.
BERLIN, Saturday.

(Delayed in Transmission.)

FROM early morning Berlin to-day is thronged with people of every nation. The streets are one mass of flags and banners, representing the 52 nations which have representatives competing in the Olympic Games.

Before noon the great throng begins to gather about the stadium at the Leich Sports Field. With the opening of the gates fortunate ticket-holders stream through the tunnels into the stadium and quickly find their seats. Within this huge concrete bowl, the people spreading slowly over its inner face, all are eager and expectant. It is a wonderful sight, which has been waited for for four years. There is a vivid contrast in colour within the great bowl, created by the clothing of a hundred thousand people, down to the emerald green of the turf of the arena.

Within this amphitheatre there is not a vacant seat. On the north side of the stadium is the choir of 2,000 voices. Its members are all dressed in white, and look like a waterfall stretching down the side of the structure. The Press section is situated directly opposite. It is a hive of industry, with countless telephone and telegraph instruments sending their messages all over the world. Under the Press is the Tribune of Honour, and on the right above the centre arch is the huge score board, on which is written: "The important thing in the Olympic Games is not winning, but taking part. And the essential thing is not conquering, but fighting well."

HITLER'S ARRIVAL

At 4 p.m., when this mighty stage is set, there is a hush as the loud speaker announces the arrival of Herr Hitler, and as he appears with the President of the Olympic Games, Dr. Lewald, there comes a mighty roar of 100,000 people. And the vast audience stands and sings the German National Anthem. The ringing of the Olympic Bell inaugurates the games. Trumpets sound a fanfare: "I call the youth of the world."

Suddenly all eyes turned towards the mouth of the tunnel. Dressed in white and carrying the flag of Greece, an athlete marches in. He is Louis, the Marathon runner who won in 1896 the Marathon for Greece. He is followed by a group of Greek athletes, who make their way down the trace past the Tribune of Honour. Pride of place is given to Greece as the mother of the Olympics.

In quick succession the teams enter in alphabetical order, beginning with Argentine and ending with Uruguay, and, last of all, the German team. As these long lines of athletes stream in, cheers and applause greet each team as it enters until it takes up its position in the arena opposite the Tribune of Honour.

The largest team is that of Germany with a total of 427, followed by U.S.A. with 357, while Costa Rica, Haiti and Jamaica have each only one entrant. When these teams have taken up their positions the varied colours of their flags and dress show up in vivid contrast with the emerald green of the turf as a background. This is, indeed, a wonderful spectacle.

FORMAL OPENING

Then Dr. Lewald, President of the Games, makes a speech thanking the Organisation Committees of the nations taking part, and all who have given service so that these games could be held. He then requests Herr Hitler to formally open the Games. When Herr Hitler rises to speak there is a mighty applause lasting for several minutes. Artillery salute as the Olympic flag is raised on the centre mast, and thousands of doves are released from the ground to take the air, swinging around above the athletes in widening circles until they disperse in all directions, carrying messages of the opening of the Eleventh Olympic Games.

In the next moment an athlete dashes into the arena carrying a torch of fire. He is the last of 3,000 runners who have carried the Olympic Torch from Mount Olympus in Greece to Berlin. This Olympic Flame was started on July 20th, and so passed, from runner to runner, through seven different countries, and finally into the arena. As he runs along the green turf he receives a wonderful ovation. He lights the Olympic Bowl, which will remain alight for the next sixteen days.

At the call of a trumpet the flags of all the nations come forward from their teams and form an arc around a rostrum, where a German athlete stands to take the Olympic Oath. In one hand he holds the German flag, and, as he raises the other, he takes the following vow on behalf of every team:—"We swear that we will take part in the Olympic Games in loyal competition respecting the regulations which govern them, and, desirous of participating in them in the true spirit of sportsmanship, for the honour of our country and for the glory of sport."

Presently the choir sings the Olympic Hymn, specially composed for these Games, by Richard Strauss, and which is to be the hymn for all future games. To the music of the band the exit march of the athletes begins, and slowly the vast audience leaves the great amphitheatre.

For two hours this truly magnificent spectacle held the audience spell-bound—and thus opens the Eleventh Olympiad.

STABILISING THE FRANC

FRANCE'S NEW BANK CHIEF IN BERLIN

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BERLIN, Monday.

M. Labeyrie, the newly-appointed Governor of the Bank of France, was entertained at lunch to-day by Dr. Schacht, President of the Reichsbank. The French Ambassador, M. Andre Francois-Poncet, was also present at this function.

Banking circles here believe that M. Labeyrie is anxious to sound his foreign colleague's views on currency problems with a view to the possible stabilisation of the franc. No doubt he will also inform them of the new statutes of the Bank of France.

M. Labeyrie is leaving for Amsterdam to see the Governor of the Netherlands Bank either to-night or to-morrow morning, and intends to see Mr. Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, in September. Mr. Norman will by then have returned from America.

Considerable importance is attached in Paris to M. Labeyrie's call on Dr. Schacht to-day and on the Governor of the Netherlands Bank to-morrow.

It is believed that M. Labeyrie is seeking to lay the foundations of a wide international agreement to facilitate a return to normalcy, such agreement to embrace currency and tariff reforms on the lines outlined in the recent speech of the French Finance Minister in the Senate.

AGROUND NEAR ST. KILDA

A report that a foreign vessel of about 2,000 tons had gone ashore near the lonely Atlantic island of St. Kilda, and that her crew had been safely landed was received at Stornoway, in the Hebrides yesterday. The name of the ship is given as the Victor, and she is stated to have been flying the Esthonian flag, and to be owned in Copenhagen.

It appears that the crew took to their boats leaving most of their possessions behind, and reached Northton Sands. It is believed that the vessel is ashore, having been holed on a rock, but hopes are entertained that she can be salvaged. For the past few days the crew have been at Harris.

CRICKET

IRELAND WELL AHEAD

M.C.C. Bat Poorly at Rathmines: Home Victory Likely

AS the outcome of the second day's play in the match between Gentlemen of Ireland and M.C.C. yesterday at Rathmines, the Irishmen have left off in a very strong position, and unless the visitors make a big recovery to-day, the home side should gain an easy victory.

Having batted nearly all day on Saturday for their total of 296, Ireland got the M.C.C. out in two and a half hours yesterday for 124. The Irish captain did not force the follow-on, and Ireland, going in a second time, have scored 183 for 7 wickets, so that, as matters at present stand, they hold the commanding lead of 355 runs and have three wickets to fall.

There was nothing of note in the visitors' batting, and but for an eighth-wicket stand between A. D. Hodges and B. B. Waddy, the total would, indeed, have been poor. This pair defied the Irish attack for twenty-five minutes and added 35 runs, of which Waddy made 26. The best batting in the innings was that of Hodges, who played with confidence, but restraint, and took one and a half hours to make 34. M. K. Foster was batting well when he cocked up one to Reddy and was promptly held. Ireland tried four bowlers, and the wickets were evenly divided, Ingram, with 3 for 29 runs, coming out the most successful.

MACDONALD'S BEST

Ireland, in the second innings, started none too well, as after losing Tom MacDonald and F. G. Connell for 27, half the side was out for 109. James MacDonald, however, came to the rescue, and at the close of play he was unbeaten with 85 to his credit. Going in first wicket down, he has been at the wickets for two and a half hours, and his innings so far has been without blemish. He has played with delightful freedom, and has already got eleven boundaries. Though he has played on Irish teams for the past eight years, it is the highest score that the North Down man has made for his country. Lieutenant O'Brien Butler also batted well, and, in making 15, assisted MacDonald to put on 31 for the seventh wicket.

C. R. Cuffe, though he has only scored 8, has kept up his end well. E. A. Ingram shaped better than he did in the first innings, and he made 25 before being bowled by a yorker from Waddy. The Irish fielding was very keen, and Boucher, Ingram, and Reddy all brought off brilliant catches. A resumption will be made this morning at 11.30. Score:—

GENTLEMEN OF IRELAND.

THE INDIANS FAIL BEFORE MERCER

Batting between the showers, All-India never settled down against Glamorgan at Swansea yesterday, and collapsing before the bowling of Mercer, who, at forty-one years of age, is having his best season, they were dismissed in two and a half hours for 112.

Mercer had two brilliant spells—at the start and at the end of the innings. He opened by capturing two wickets in his second over with successive balls, before conceding a run, and, recalled when the tourists looked like recovering, he took the last three for three runs. His final figures of seven for 48 was one of the best performances against the tourists; as a matter of fact, no other bowler has taken seven wickets against them in a single innings.

Lancashire had to pay rather dearly for fielding errors at Manchester, where Yorkshire, after a great struggle, secured a lead of 44 runs with one wicket to fall. Pollard and Sibbles bowled splendidly for Lancashire.

Middlesex outplayed Sussex at Hove, thanks to a splendid innings by Hulmes, Compton and Hendren, and good bowling by Jim Smith. Sussex finished up 222 behind with one wicket to fall.

A magnificent not-out innings of 160 by Hammond, who hit twelve 4's, placed Gloucestershire in a strong position at Bristol, and Somerset, collapsing badly, are 154 behind with only one wicket to fall.

Play did not start until 3 o'clock, owing to rain, at Edgbaston, where Warwickshire recovered after losing half their wickets cheaply.

O'Connor, playing his best innings of the season hit three 6's and seven 4's in helping Essex to a first innings lead of 139 over Derby at Chelmsford. Though Alderman batted soundly, Derbyshire finished up only 56 ahead with three wickets to fall.

Larwood bowled superbly at the Oval, where Notts, after gaining a first innings lead of 57, collapsed, and left Surrey to get 176 to win. Larwood's six wickets on an easy-paced pitch was a great feat. Fishlock and Holmes batted finely for Surrey.

Wright, Kent's leg-break bowler, did fine work at Canterbury after receiving his county cap, and helped to dismiss Hampshire cheaply. Kent finished 23 behind with eight men out.

Dempster hit his fourth hundred of the season at Northants, where Leicester gained a lead of 43. Bakewell replied with a splendid innings, and Northants wound up 145 ahead with five wickets in hand.

ULSTER SENIOR CUP

Woodvale will be North Down's opponents in the Northern Union Senior Cup final on Friday and Saturday. They beat Strabane by 41 runs in the semi-final, which was concluded at Lisburn yesterday. Scores—Woodvale, 220; Strabane, 179.

Hilda Bagnall, aged fourteen, of Wellesley street, Shelton, Stoke-on-Trent, was yesterday found dead at a house in Tutbury road, Burton-on-Trent, where she was spending a holiday. On Sunday she was caught in a storm, and, on returning, her coat was hung over a line attached at one end to a gas pipe. Yesterday the gas pipe was leaking, and it is thought that the weight of the wet coat might have caused the leak.

COWES REGATTA'S BAD START

FIVE YACHTS DISMASTED

OCCUPANTS THROWN FROM CANOES

FIVE racing yachts were dismasted in the Royal London Yacht Club's regatta at Cowes yesterday. Endeavour II., Mr. T. O. M. Sopwith's new "J" boat and the probable challenger for the America's Cup met with a serious set-back when she had done twenty miles of the forty-two miles of her course. There was a fresh wind blowing, and, as she was leading her three rivals by some distance, her great mast came down with a crash

RACE ABANDONED

Behind her were the old Endeavour, Velsheda and Astra. The mast had snapped just above the deck. No lives were lost. The race was abandoned, and the three other yachts returned to Cowes.

Lord Runciman's schooner, Sunbeam II., took the disabled yacht in tow and brought her to anchor off Ryde Vita, Mr. Sopwith's motor yacht put off from Cowes to assist.

This is the second time that Endeavour II. has lost her mast. The first mishap was at Plymouth a month ago. It is thought that the accident will keep the boat out of the races at Cowes for the rest of the week.

Four other boats lost their masts during the day. They were Mr. Geoffrey Hawke's Minstrel in the big handicap class, Mr. E. G. Wardrop's Oenone in the medium handicap class, and Captain J. Dalgety's Fintra, and Mr. R. C. M. Wynn's Senith in the "Q" class.

CANOES OVERTURNED

Two of the tiny international class canoes overturned in the late afternoon, and spilled their occupants.

All of the big boats and most of the other hundred odd craft taking part in the programme of nine races sailed with a reef taken in, because of the freshening breeze.

The lawns of the Royal Yacht Squadron were filled with women visitors

Large crowds, including an unusual proportion of visitors from France, Germany, Holland and America gathered outside the iron railings; but if they expected a "fashion parade" of elaborate "creations" they were disappointed, as simplicity was a keynote of the clothes worn.

NORTHERN UNEMPLOYED

AN INCREASE DURING MONTH

The employment situation in Northern Ireland on 20th July, 1936, shows an improvement in employment in the linen and distributive trades, but there was a decrease in the number employed in the tailoring and dress, shipbuilding and building trade groups, as compared with the previous month.

It is estimated that at 20th July, 1936, the number of insured persons, aged 16-64, in employment in Northern Ireland, exclusive of agricultural workers, was approximately 199,450. This was 1,650 less than a month ago, but 8,800 more than twelve months ago. The figure for the month under review, however, will be subject to revision when the insured population at 30th June, 1936, has been estimated.

There were 1,598 vacancies filled through the medium of the Employment Exchanges in the course of the month, and 21,881 during the past twelve months.

As compared with the figures on 22nd June, 1936, there has been an increase of 473 men, 816 women, and five boys and girls registered for work. The total number of persons registered, including 776 boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 16, is 64,990. The number registered also comprises 8,699 persons temporarily stopped, or who follow casual employment, and approximately 20,400 who have been registered as unemployed for less than three months.

THE WORLD'S GROUSERS

FARMERS, OLD SOLDIERS AND CAMELS

According to Field-Marshal Sir William Birdwood, farmers, old soldiers and camels are the three most inveterate grousers in the world.

Speaking at Deal yesterday, he said: "There is always something wrong with the farmer. Even if he gets a wonderful crop he says: 'Look what 'twill cost me to cart away.'"

"The camel when being loaded grumbles and snorts continually, casting its head round to see how much more is going on, but when the loading is finished it gets up and does a good day's work without another protest. The same with farmers and soldiers."

The Field-Marshall dislikes "make-up," and thinks the majority of young men like girls without it. He said: "Some young women are seeing if they can better and embellish the beauties God gave them by putting horrible-looking stuff on to their nails and faces.

"I may be told I am talking of things of which I know nothing, which might be quite true, but 99 out of 100 young men prefer to see them with the beautiful faces God gave them, rather than have them hidden by horrible stuff on their cheeks"

A Reuter message from Amsterdam states that two women and a man on board the British yacht Thistle had a narrow escape yesterday when she went adrift with a broken mast in a heavy sea in Flushing roads. A British steamer nearby lowered a boat to help, but had to give up the attempt owing to the high seas running. Finally a Belgian pilot vessel brought the yacht in to Flushing. The women and man aboard suffered no injuries.

DUN LAOGHAIRE DOG SHOW

A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

HIGH QUALITY IN ALL CLASSES

THE Dun Laoghaire Canine Society held their second annual dog show yesterday at Monkstown Park, Monkstown, Co. Dublin, in grounds lent by Mr. F. M. Bentley and Mr. H. W. A. Evans. It was a successful exhibition, 725 dogs being shown. High quality in most classes was a general characteristic. The principal classes filled well, though, owing to the reduction of the number of classes, the total number of entries was necessarily lower. The show drew a large attendance.

PRACTICAL WORK.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

In addition to marking the best birds, the trap-nesting will enable the duds and bad layers, as well as layers of small or badly-shapen eggs, to be detected and to be excluded from the future breeders. This is part of the practical work connected with building up a good strain, and is well worth while for anyone who really wants to conduct poultry-keeping on up-to-date lines. Make ready now to begin it this season by having your trap-nests all ready and your pullets ringed before September.
